Parents beware of kids' vows

by MARILYN McDONALD

First graders in the Northwest suburbs have made New Year's resolutions for 1976, and many parents better beware.

David Robinson and Barbara Fogel, two of the first graders in the area who told The Herald their resolutions for this year, vowed to help their parents stop smoking.

David already has started his campaign. "I just make signs everywhere he goes — in our new station wagon, in his closet, under his pillow, on the night stand. He said he wouldn't stop smoking until I made enough signs," David says.

"IT'S NOT GOOD for something inside you," Barbara said, "and you could die from it."

For Jeff Bostic, 1976 is the year he begins his drive to make the basketball team when he gets to high school in seven years.

Jeff says he is going to spend the Bicentennial year honing his roundball skills "because I can't catch a basketball."

And Kelly Kolar also plans to mix good health with fun by improving her rope-jumping skills.

Kelly recently jumped rope for the first time and plans to continue "because it's good exercise for your knees."

SOME RESOLUTIONS show wisdom beyond 6 years of age. Eric Bernhardt resolved not to lie during the year. "You shouldn't really lie. People might know that you lied," he says.

And Kathy Christy has vowed to help keep her house clean. "because no one ever does it," David Roberts' parents also are in for a surprise because he has vowed to "help do the dishes" during the new year.

If some area first graders keep their resolutions, parents should see a meteoric rise in grades this year.

David Noble says he would like to do better in math "because teacher said I should." And Kathy Westcott plans to improve her reading, "so I can learn more things."

MANY NORTHWEST suburban parents should be relieved to know their first-grade children plan to minimize fighting with

Sheila Keenan says, "I'm going to promise myself that I won't fight with my brother Timmy." Sheila says she and her younger brother Timmy often fight over toys. But Sheila is concerned that the two of them might set a bad example for their 2-year-old brother. "My other little brother might start fighting, and we'll never be right without fighting," she says.

Michael Van Deven figures that getting along better with his older brother will show his parents that he loves them. Another way to fulfill his resolution to love his parents more is "by not waking up grumpy in the morning."

Laura Hanson has plans to be better to another member of her family. She is going to be more "gentle with the kitten" in the household.

Then there is Leanne Rothacher who has more lofty ideals for the new year. She wants to "make an angel" of herself and make everyone happy.

CLAUDIA KIEFFER says "loving God better" is her resolution for 1976. She says she can reach her goal by "thinking about Him more, praying, studying Bible stories and singing songs about God."

Michael Radzine has made perhaps the most meaningful resolution of all. "I promised my mother I'd give my sister a bath," he says, explaining that his mother is making a slow recovery from an automobile accident and has trouble caring for him and his 4-year-old sister Beth.

But then some first-graders just want to wish away 1976 until it's Christmas again. Junior woodsman Lance Burgdorf has resolved to "cut Christmas trees better" next year.

Former resident slain in Champaign

Joseph Klein, 21, formerly of Arlington Heights, a full-time student at the University of Illinois, was found shot to death Tuesday night in his Champaign home.

Klein, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Klein, 212 S. Ridge St., Arlington Heights, apparently was shot by two men who entered the home about 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Champaign police said.

Although no motive for the killing has been established yet, police said there has been a rash of home robberies in the city in recent months.

Police said Klein, his 3-year-old daughter, Melissa and Klein's sister, Mary Klein, were in the house at 205 E. Garwood St. when the incident occurred.

Klein was on the first floor of the house, his daughter was sleeping and Miss Klein was in the basement when two men entered the front door, police said.

MISS KLEIN said her brother called to her to come upstairs and telephone police. She was attempting to dial the number, police said, when one of the men came into the kitchen, cut off the connection and went back into the living room.

At that point, Miss Klein told police she heard two shots. After telephoning for an ambulance, Miss Klein went into the living room and discovered her brother on the floor. Attempts to revive Klein were unsuccessful and he was pronounced dead on arrival at Burnham City Hospital, Champaign.

Police said they believe Klein was killed with a .38 caliber or semi-automatic handgun.

A resident of Champaign for about one year, Klein is survived by his wife, Kathleen along with his daughter, Melissa. Funeral arrangements were not available Wednesday.

Town hall groundbreaking soon

by JOE SWICKARD

The new Wheeling Town Hall is expected to open for business next fall, said Ethel Kolerus, township supervisor.

Groundbreaking for the new two-story colonial style building at 1620 North Arlington Heights Road is scheduled for February. Construction of the $650,000 building will take six to seven months to complete.

The building, to be paid for through federal revenue-sharing funds and from the $140,000 proceeds of the sale of the present town hall at 1818 E. Northwest Hwy., will house offices for Shelter Inc., Omni-House: Youth Services Bureau, the Salvation Army and the Northwest Mental Health Center as well as township functions.

MRS. KOLERUS said the building's interior design was recently approved by the agencies to be housed there.

The first floor of the building will house the township assistance and assessor's offices, senior citizens' services and a general purpose room.

The second floor will have areas for the mental health agency, Shelter Inc. and the Salvation Army.

The basement will house mechanical operations for the building and offices for Omni-House youth services.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Power Commission Wednesday ordered an immediate nationwide boost in natural gas prices, to be followed by another increase in July. The increases will cost consumers about $360 million extra in 1976.

In its unanimous opinion, the FPC said the price increase was necessary to ease natural gas shortages, to protect the industry's ability to meet demand, and help the nation's economy.

"Our responsibilities under the Natural Gas Act require us to take appropriate steps to minimize the adverse impact of gas shortages on the economy..." the FPC said.

"IN OUR judgment the benefit to the national economy from amelioration of the gas shortage will more than compensate for the increased cost to consumers of the gas covered by this opinion."

A Northern Illinois Gas Co. spokesman said Wednesday:

"We have no way of knowing how this will affect us."

Pipeline suppliers including the Natural Gas Pipeline Co. of America, Chicago, will pass along any cost increases to the utility.

Under the opinion, the ceiling price producers may charge pipeline operators for natural gas from wells operating prior to Jan. 1, 1973 will rise to 23 1/2 cents per thousand cubic feet on

New Year's Day.

It will go to 29 1/2 cents on July 1 to reflect repeal of the percentage depletion allowance for oil and natural gas that becomes effective on that date.

The new rates will be effective nationwide, ending the current system of rate-setting by geographic area. The average cost of natural gas under this system in 1975 was 22.9 cents per thousand cubic feet.

THE FPC estimated — assuming no change in 1972 gas volumes — an added cost of $360.55 million in 1976. An FPC spokesman said such cost increases traditionally have been passed through to consumers.

The action affects only gas shipped in interstate commerce and not that piped within a single state. Those rates, not federally regulated, have tended to be slightly higher.

Under the new order, the minimum natural gas price will be set at 18 cents per thousand cubic feet.

The opinion does not affect the price of natural gas from wells operating since Jan. 1, 1973 — for which the FPC in 1974 set a single nationwide ceiling of 51 cents per thousand cubic feet. Under that decision, the ceiling automatically rises today to 52 cents.

For both "old" and "new" gas now covered by nationwide rates, the complex formulas were devised to give producers a 15 per cent rate of return.

Joining in lengthy opinion ending the 2 1/2 year old case were FPC Chairman Richard L. Dunham and Commissioners Don S. Smith, John H. Holoman III and James G. Watt; there is one vacancy.

"The commission said it had determined on the basis of the evidence that the price adjustment for old gas is necessary to protect the industry's ability to serve the interstate market," said an accompanying statement.

Bicentennial, basic skills head schools' 1976 list

by DOROTHY OLIVER

It's a brand new year and in education it will be the year of the three Bs — Back to Basics and the Bicentennial.

Back to basics is probably THE trend taking hold in education. Teachers and administrators across the country have been alarmed for a number of years with the continuing decline in test scores. Education magazines devote page after page to articles on why Johnny can't read, write, spell or remember his math tables.

The problem really came into focus this week when I received a letter from a Harper College freshman speech instructor. She had just finished grading a set of final exam papers and sent me an example of a "particularly incoherent" answer that was turned in.

Her question was: Make two accurate statements about "appropriate" in connection with the audience and occasion.

THE STUDENT'S answer was: "Appropriate is the aspect of cecip audience is a major role with you audience the appropriate time and place is the occasion the is a tire."

The teacher asks if this student, a high school graduate, has failed to achieve coherence in 12 years of schooling, why must we continue the costly charade?

Education today

by Dorothy Oliver

Another question many educators are asking is: How can we prevent a situation like this from occurring.

Some of our school districts have formally started back-to-basics type programs. Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Dist. 21 is using the theme "Focus on Basics" this year and, although administrators emphasize they have never turned their backs on reading, writing, spelling and math, the year will be devoted to strengthening those curriculum areas.

High School Dist. 211, which includes Palatine and Schaumburg townships, has inaugurated the essential skills test which will become part of the graduation requirement.

ELK GROVE Township Dist. 59 is discussing turning one of their buildings into a back-to-basics school and allowing parents from all over the district to send their children.

Back to basics is something you'll be hearing a lot about in 1976. And judging from the spelling ability of my own offspring, it's a move in the right direction.

The Bicentennial is the other THE thing. I've already heard innumerable teachers and parents say, "If I have to do one more Bicentennial project, I'll scream." But I've never yet heard it from a kid.

We are being deluged with Bicentennial paraphernalia and most Americans are beginning to understand just how long it took to get into and fight the revolution.

Adults may be bordering on the cynical but kids are glorying in their history. They are learning more than the superficial "we were taxed without representation, got mad, threw their tea in the harbor and went to war" version of the revolution. They are learning the interesting anecdotes and understanding why we are what we are. That can't be all bad.

Judge OKs Hulett's move

A Circuit Court judge Wednesday refused to issue an injunction that would have prevented Allen W. Hulett, former Elk Grove fire chief, from leaving the country today. The injunction was sought by an attorney for Gary Pettee who has filed two $6 million lawsuits against Hulett in connection with the January 1974 deaths of Pettee's wife, Jean, and her unborn child. Hulett resigned his Elk Grove post, effective today, to take over as head of fire rescue services in Saudi Arabia. Hulett is being sued for calling back an ambulance sent to the Pettee home to treat Mrs. Pettee. Hulett, however, recalled the ambulance because the Pettees had not contracted for the service, as required by a village policy. That policy has since been changed.

Gettysburg ambulance called

Mamie awake and resting in Walter Reed hospital

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Mamie Eisenhower was taken by ambulance from her Gettysburg, Pa., farm home Wednesday to Walter Reed Army Medical Center where the former first lady was reported "resting comfortably."

A hospital spokesman said the 78-year-old widow of President Dwight D. Eisenhower was admitted at 11:25 a.m. "and is being medically evaluated."

There was no immediate report on the condition of Mrs. Eisenhower, who has been in poor health for some time.

"She is resting comfortably and was awake and conversant upon her arrival," the spokesman said. He replied

"no," when asked if she had suffered a stroke.

The Secret Service said agents assigned to her at the farm called the Gettysburg Fire Department for an ambulance about 9 a.m. She was brought to Walter Reed under police escort.

It was the third trip to a hospital this year for Mrs. Eisenhower, who was 79 years old on Nov. 8.

She was stricken on March 25, with an intestinal ailment while vacationing at her Augusta, Ga., cottage and was hospitalized briefly. After leaving the hospital, the illness recurred and she was admitted on April 14 to Walter Reed for further tests and treatment.

She and her husband retired to the white brick farmhouse at Gettysburg in the foothills of the Allegheny Mountains in 1960 when Eisenhower completed his second term in office.

The former president died March 28, 1969 and Mrs. Eisenhower has since dedicated her life to working for the ideals championed by her husband, including the promotion of American education.

She has spent most of her time in recent years at the Gettysburg farm, wintering in Palm Desert, Calif., and often vacationing at "Mamie's Cottage" on the Augusta, Ga. National Country Club grounds.

Social Security to take bigger paycheck bite

WASHINGTON (UPI) — For American workers earning $15,300 a year or more, Social Security taxes increase 8.5 per cent starting New Year's day, taking a still-bigger bite from the paychecks of middle income workers in 1976.

The tax will be higher than 1975's for anyone who earns over $13,100. For those who earn below that amount, there will be no increase in the new year.

A worker earning $350 a week will have $29.48 less in his first paycheck for 1976 than he had in the last check in 1975. A worker earning $500 will have $39.25 less.

The latest increase meant payroll taxes have soared 42 per cent since 1973 when the annual obligation was $631.80. It is now $894.05.

Most workers probably will pay more money for Social Security in 1976 than they will in state or local income taxes.

Mercenary knows guns, demolition, how to kill

Hatred, his ace in hole

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — In the shadow world of the mercenary soldier, Jim Rangel is a pro.

He knows it all—weapons, demolition, parachutes, guerrilla tactics—how to kill.

Guns for hire are big business in a world fragmented by hatred. That's Rangel's ace in the hole, hatred. It's what makes him tick.

"Every now and then I have to go back and see the blood," he said. "I still got to stay loose."

"I'll do it until I get the hate out of me. I guess."

Rangel is Mexican-American, raised in a small town in Wyoming. "There was a lot of prejudice," he said. "I guess it was the way I was brought up. That's where it started."

Rangel is 29. He was educated mostly by the Army. He spent more than nine years in the service, leaving in 1969 with the rank of E-9, and injuries which made it impossible for him to return to the action in Vietnam.

"I took the physical and couldn't pass it. So I said the hell with it. A Major I know approached me then and asked me if I wanted to do the same type of thing."

"He gave me $2,500 cash and a plane ticket and I was on my way."

Since then he has fought and trained others in the sciences of war in most of the Middle East and several countries in Africa, including Ethiopia and Biafra. He wants to go to Angola.

He ended up in Saudi Arabia on his first assignment, he said.

"No women, no booze. I taught parachute training. At this time I finally found out I was working for something called The Arab Republic of Nations. I was getting paid very good money."

"I got along with the people. I speak Arabic — I learned it in Special Forces — and look like an Arab."

He has been working off and on for seven years on a college degree, but he can't stay with it very long at a time.

"I have a damn good job offer, too. It isn't the money. I've had everything and I've lost everything. I went down to Mexico and blew everything I had. Now I'm broke."

He worked in Jordan training the El Fatah. He once signed up to fight for Israel in the Sinai.

"But they didn't want to pay me enough and I went to work for the Arabs. I used to get paid by the head. I learned that in Vietnam."

"By the head" means he brought back from raids a part of the kill, usually a hand, and was paid on the spot.

"Sometimes we would bring back two hands and use the other one later," he said, "but they got wise to that."

At the time he worked for an Englishman named Col. Hughes, who headed a group called "Palladin," headquartered in Spain.

"Hughes paid right then and there," he said.

He also worked for a Col. Steiner, once in central Africa and again in Ethiopia.

"Steiner had a set of rules," he said. "You didn't break them or you didn't come back. He took good care of you. Or he took care of you good."

"We started out working for the government and then we switched and I got out after that. My contract was up."

He's been cooped up in a country without a war on for too long.

"I've got to get moving. I'll do it until I get this hate out of me. I fight a lot. I can't control my temper."

"All my life I was taught if you want something, go fight for it. I've fought for everything I've had."

"I go downtown, to Main Street, and I see all these people. I get this feeling and I can't be part of it."

For planned New Year offensive

Cubans reinforce Angolan forces

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — The black Marxist regime in Angola has been reinforced by a fresh contingent of battle-seasoned Cuban troops for a planned New Year offensive against two pro-Western guerrilla movements, foreign intelligence sources said Wednesday.

They said the Cubans were flown by troop carrier into the war-scarred West African nation after a stopover in the Portuguese Azores.

The Cuban troops now number an estimated 7,500 men, the report said. The force, sent to Angola at the urging of the Kremlin, has more than doubled in a month.

The Soviet-backed Popular Movement for the Liberation of Angola plans to expand its hold on the oil-rich young state prior to an emergency Organization of African Unity summit meeting Jan. 10.

Western diplomats said the 46-member organization may demand the withdrawal of foreign forces but said there was no chance the three black nationalist movements warring for supremacy in Angola could be reconciled.

The OAU has demanded the end of "aggression" by South African troops fighting on the side of the anti-Communist movements — the National Front for the Liberation of Angola and the National Union for the Total Independence of Angola.

Russian transport planes, meanwhile, intensified the buildup of sophisticated weapons to the Popular Front-held capital of Luanda in readiness for the New Year's onslaught, the intelligence sources said.

Since independence from Lisbon seven weeks ago when Luanda was on the verge of capture by the two anti-Soviet factions, the Popular Front has pushed its enemies on the northern front 70 miles back to the town of Ambriz and halted the advance from the south and the east.

South Africa's Premier John Vorster said, meanwhile, only a greater involvement by the West in Angola can prevent a Soviet enslavement of Southern Africa.

In a New Year message, Vorster said "many more thousands will probably be killed" in the civil war unless Africa and the "free world" unite to break the Russian hold on Portugal's former oil-rich colony.

Otherwise no single African country could feel safe, he said, and the price would be African enslavement far worse than the scourges of colonialism in the past.

The Premier said: "Not only is a country with vast potential slowly dying, but thanks to leftist intrigues and blatant Communist intervention thousands of people have been senselessly killed and many more thousands will probably be killed unless this crude attempt by Russia and Cuba to force a Marxist state on a resisting and unwilling people can be stopped and only a bigger western involvement, not only in the diplomatic but all other fields, can do this."

Vorster did not refer to earlier South African proposals to end its own military intervention on the anti-Communist side if Russia and Cuba withdrew.

He said South Africa had recognized the "state of Angola" and has no designs there.

Resolve to make home burglar-proof in '76

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Looking for a practical New Year's resolution that might save you a lot of money and grief:

Well then, resolve to make your house or apartment more burglar-proof in 1976, suggests Mrs. Trish Bittermann, an expert on outsmarting burglars.

Some three million Americans probably will be burglarized in 1976 and many of them could have done more to prevent it, according to Mrs. Bittermann, a former research analyst for a large insurance company.

"Last year there was a burglary every 12 seconds," she points out. "The average loss was about $300. There was only one chance in 50 of getting your belongings back."

And, the number of burglaries is increasing.

What can you do? Here are some tips from Mrs. Bittermann:

• If you have a tape recorder, record some conversation. When you're out for the evening, leave that tape playing in your home.

• Lock doors. "Believe it or not, a lot of people don't lock their doors when they leave," Mrs. Bittermann says. "Eighteen per cent of last year's burglaries did not involve forced entry. People just didn't lock their doors. It's astounding."

• Be wary of phone calls from strangers. "We have a free gift we'd like to give you for promotional purposes," goes a typical line, she says. "We'll be bringing it out sometime this week. Is there any time that's bad for you?" Mrs. Bittermann says when you tell the caller that Thursday night would be bad because that's when you're out playing bridge, "Well, guess what you might find when you return home — not much of anything."

• Get better door locks. "Simple spring latch locks aren't tough. A child can open them. Try deadbolt or pin tumbler cylinder locks."

• Inexpensive burglar alarms that make a lot of noise may frighten the burglar away immediately after he enters.

• Engrave possessions with name or driver's license number. Marked items that can be easily identified as stolen cannot be readily sold by the burglar and therefore he might not take them.

Ford assures voters he 'is the best choice'

• President Ford said in an interview Wednesday he "is the best choice the American people have" and vowed he will not drop out of the 1976 presidential race even if he loses early primaries to challenger Ronald Reagan. The President and First Lady rang in the New Year with a quiet celebration at the White House. The first lady's press secretary said the Fords stayed home ... "just the two of them."

• A Soviet newspaper reported Wednesday that Mrs. Sofia A. Korobkina will be 120-years-old on New Year's Day. The paper said she "has never been to see a doctor and is full of health and energy." Mrs. Korobkina comes from a village in the Lipetsk region of Russia where most homes boast persons of great age.

• Hospital rounds: Psychiatrist Karl Menninger is seriously ill from the effects of a brain tumor. Menninger previously was listed in satisfactory condition at Stormont-Vail Hospital in Topeka. Menninger, chairman and founder of the Menninger Foundation, entered the hospital this month for an operation to drain fluid from the brain ... Nightclub singer Louis Prima of "That Old Black Magic" fame remained in critical condition at Cedars-Sinai Hospital in Los Angeles. He has been in a coma since undergoing brain surgery in October. The 63-year-old band leader gained fame along with his former wife, Keeley Smith, for their fast-paced singing duets during the 1950s and '60s.

• Christie Coffin, 32, a University of California lecturer on architecture, went into a Berkeley gift shop rather suddenly this week — because she had a heavy leg. While wearing a cast on her leg and trying to park her car, she got her foot stuck on the accelerator. Her car crashed through a front window bouncing pictures off the wall. The car stopped in the lamp and rug department. No one was hurt.

Western Greece shook by quake

A strong earthquake shook western Greece Wednesday, destroying and damaging village buildings and causing some casualties. The reports said a 4-year-old child was killed when a wall in a house collapsed. At least two other persons were injured. The quake, which occurred at 3:46 a.m. CST, registered an intensity of 5.75 on the Richter scale and had its epicenter 106 miles northwest of Athens, the Athens Observatory said.

Japan cabinet OKs military budget

The cabinet Wednesday approved Japan's first military budget since the fall of South Vietnam and left the strength of the country's defense forces virtually unchanged. The $4.95 billion defense budget for the fiscal year starting April 1 will add only 635 men and women to the authorized strength of Japan's 277,000-member self-defense forces.

Ireland train derailed; 5 dead, 30 hurt

A speeding passenger train struck buckled rails in southeast Ireland Wednesday and jumped the track, killing and injuring many passengers. Police said five persons were killed and 30 injured, 10 of them seriously. Ambulances and rescuers from every nearby town converged on the crash scene near Gorey, 60 miles south of Dublin, and rushed the injured to hospitals in Gorey, Wexford and as far away as Dublin.

W. Coast doctors plan malpractice protest

Southern California doctors have threatened to withhold all but emergency service as of New Year's day to protest rising malpractice insurance rates. Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr.'s chief medical malpractice troubleshooter says he will continue to meet with physicians who have turned down an administration plan already. The doctors, faced with increases of as much as 327 per cent in malpractice insurance premiums, have threatened work stoppages because they are unable to afford policies.

N.Y. airports close parcel locker areas

Authorities ordered all parcel lockers at New York's three airports out of service Wednesday for an indefinite period in a move aimed at preventing a possible repetition of the bombing of LaGuardia Airport. The Port Authority of New York, which operates LaGuardia, Kennedy International and Newark airports, said it took the unusual action because of the Monday night bombing which killed 11 persons and injured 75 others. The airlines also requested the action, the authority said.

Ford campaign hq. burglar alarm sounds

A burglar alarm went off early Wednesday at a suite occupied by President Ford's campaign committee in Washington, but police said the intruders apparently did not take anything from the office. A police spokesman said investigators found several screws removed from the front door hinges of a suite housing the advertising section of the President Ford Committee. The spokesman said the alarm sounded at 1:51 a.m. CST.

Put together all the bicycles, stereo equipment, radios, jewelry, clothing, fishing rods and auto accessories that fill the property rooms of area police departments and you probably have enough merchandise to stock a small-size department store.

And sometimes, the shelves get so overstocked with lost, stolen and recovered property, police find themselves having to move the merchandise like they were in the retail store business.

"Sometimes it looks like K-Mart down here," said William Harz, Des Plaines police property officer. Harz' office is usually stacked to the ceiling with lost and confiscated goods, including large numbers of televisions, stereo equipment, guns and liquor, not to mention a perpetually-full rack of bicycles located outside the station.

WHEN INVENTORIES become too large to be kept in the property room, police conduct a public auction to get rid of items not claimed by the original owners.

"We usually peddle all the stuff here," said Harz, "everything from women's bloomers right on up. And it brings in good revenue for the city."

Bicycles, may found by residents and turned in, are usually the featured items in auctions conducted twice a year, Harz said. Anywhere from 40 to 50 bikes are auctioned each time, and the over-all sale can bring in as much as $1,000.

Large amounts of narcotics, such as marijuana, cocaine, and LSD, seized in drug arrests also are among police property stocks, but they, like the guns, must be destroyed if they are not being held for evidence in court.

Liquor, when its usefulness as evidence ends, suffers the same fate. "The plumbing gets a workout after the case," said Lt. John Homola, who is in charge of properties for the Mount Prospect Police Dept. Homola said he's dumped many a bottle of booze down the drain, an ordeal he says would bring tears to the eyes of a connoisseur of whiskies and wines.

MOUNT PROSPECT police also handle a sizable quantity of recovered and confiscated property and have periodic auctions. Bikes are the main auction item in Mount Prospect also, Homola said, but stereo equipment, tools and radios were up for sale at the last one, he said.

"We get a fair amount of narcotics," he said, but the drugs are given to state narcotics officials, or the Metropolitan Enforcement Group, an area under cover drug agency, to be destroyed.

Homola said he even remembers getting a couple of tombstones that pranksters had apparently dumped on someone's lawn. They had to be disposed of because the owners could not be found, he said.

Schaumburg Police Chief Martin Conroy said his department also handles large property inventories, much of it store merchandise to be used in prosecution of shoplifting cases. With Woodfield and eight other shopping centers in the village, Schaumburg police make many shoplifting arrests each year.

CONROY WAS instrumental in obtaining an order from Judge Anton Smigiel, head of the 3rd District of Cook County Circuit Court earlier this year, calling for return of stolen items to merchants within 30 days after the first court appearance of an accused shoplifter.

Not only has the ruling relieved cramped evidence lockers, Conroy said, "but it's helped the merchants in getting their stock back and putting it back up on the shelves."

Wheeling Police Lt. Ronald Nelson said police in that community recently conducted an auction in which bicycles, a motorcycle and even a few abandoned autos were sold. Also for sale was an old overhead projector someone discovered in the forest preserve a few years ago and turned over to authorities.

And while some other departments hire professionals to handle the sale, Nelson said he himself acted as auctioneer.

"WE USED TO take bikes to Maryville Academy in Des Plaines," he said, "but everyone started doing the same thing and they were overcome with them."

Wheeling police don't handle as much lost and recovered property as some other departments, and some items have been known to sit in the police garage for years, Nelson said.

Rolling Meadows Police Chief Lewis Case said his department gets a large number of bicycles each year, but police check with neighboring departments and use a statewide computer system in an effort to track down owners.

Some bike auctions take place twice a year, but "we return an awful lot of them to the owners," he said.

Patient hospitalization to continue upward trend

1975 figures show semi-private room costs jumped between 8.5% and 23.4% at suburban hospitals

by KURT BAER

Like just about everything else, the cost of getting sick became more expensive in 1975.

Daily hospital room rates — a popular index of health care costs — were increased at all four Northwest suburban hospitals this year.

And a spokesman for the Chicago Hospital Council, an organization of 99 institutions in metropolitan Chicago, predicted the price rises would continue unchecked in 1976.

The biggest area rate increase was at Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, where the price of a semi-private room went up 23.4 per cent Nov. 1.

THE SMALLEST percentage raise, 8.5 per cent, was announced at Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge, which already has the area's highest room rate.

Alexian Brothers Medical Center, Elk Grove Village, announced a 20 per cent hike in the cost of its semi-private rooms.

Holy Family Hospital, Des Plaines, went up 12.6 per cent.

In most cases the daily hospital rate includes room, board and routine nursing care costs.

A CHICAGO Hospital Council survey of 84 hospitals in Cook County showed that room rate increases in 1974-75 were the highest in five years. An average hike of 21 per cent was reported.

And a Chicago Hospital Council spokesman said he expects the percentage may be even higher when the 1975-76 reporting period is complete.

"The increase in hospital malpractice insurance premiums probably will be an even greater factor in 1975-76 than the expiration of the President's economic stabilization price freeze was in 1974," the spokesman said.

For most Northwest suburban residents, the higher hospital costs are picked up by health insurance companies which in turn often raise charges for the insured.

HOSPITAL administrators uniformly said they were forced to raise room rates to meet their budgets. Pharmaceuticals and food service — two of a hospital's biggest day-to-day costs — increased faster than the national inflation rate, said Bruce Fisher, assistant administrator at Alexian Brothers.

Astronomical increases in the cost of hospital malpractice insurance was another big contributor to higher room rates.

At Northwest Community Hospital, which actually announced three separate increases in 1975 totaling $18.50, the malpractice insurance premium more than doubled from $475,000 to $960,000.

Of the $17 more per day Northwest patients started paying Nov. 1, $3.45 goes to malpractice insurance and about $10 pays for employee raises. Another $2.50 pays for supplies, and $1.75 is spent on new equipment.

"THE EXPENSES of the hospital will go up $3.7 million next year," said Malcolm MacCoun, Northwest Community Hospital president. "The biggest increase is the payroll, about $1.85 million," including $1.3 million in pay raises and $500,000 for new positions, he said.

At Alexian Brothers Medical Center, where a $15-a-day rate increase goes into effect today, the cost of malpractice insurance amounts to $9.26 per patient day. Last year, malpractice coverage cost only $1.19 per patient day. The hospital's total malpractice insurance cost skyrocketed from $135,000 to $1.5 million.

MacCoun and Fisher said the increased premiums were not a result of more malpractice claims against their hospital. "It seems to be the insurance companies' expectation of what's coming in the future," Fisher said.

Lutheran General Hospital administrators said the $10-a-day increase effective today was brought about by higher costs, but not in malpractice insurance. "That was picked up by our previous rate increase," a spokesman said.

LUTHERAN GENERAL has the highest hospital room costs in the Northwest suburban area. But the spokesman said rates at the 675-bed Park Ridge institution are not out of line with other "teaching" hospitals.

Lutheran General is affiliated with the University of Illinois Medical School and as a teaching hospital encounters higher costs than the other three Northwest suburban community hospitals.

Holy Family Hospital, Des Plaines, smallest of the area's institutions, also has the lowest room cost. Holy Family increased its rates $10 a day Aug. 1. An additional $5 hike in the cost of a private room took effect Dec. 1.

The Chicago Hospital Council reports rates at the Northwest suburban hospitals are about average for the metropolitan area. A survey of hospital charges as of July 1 showed the average semi-private room cost was $32.35, a council spokesman said.

The trend in hospital room rates is summed up by a recent advertisement for a nationally-known health insurance company which read: "If you thought you were sick before you went in the hospital, just wait until you get the bill."

1975 ROOM rate increases at four Northwest suburban hospitals ranged between 8.5 and 23.4 per cent. Startling increases in the cost of hospital malpractice insurance contributed to the rise.

Blood donor day in Des Plaines slated Jan. 12

Holy Family Hospital, Des Plaines, will hold a blood donor day for area residents from 8:30 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. Monday, Jan. 12.

January is National Volunteer Blood Donor Month in the Northwest suburbs and across the nation.

A Holy Family Hospital spokesman said persons are urged to donate blood at the hospital, 100 N. River Rd., on Mondays from 8:30 to 8:30 p.m. during January. To make an appointment call 297-1800, ext. 1900.

Almost everyone in good health between the ages of 17 and 65 and weighing at least 110 pounds is qualified to give blood at Holy Family, a member of the North Suburban Blood Center.

Persons who give blood become a member of an assurance plan guaranteeing them, and often their family, free blood replacement.

Dow up 3.32 pts. in yearend rally

NEW YORK (UPI) — Getting ready for the new year, investors drove prices higher today in fairly active trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

There was little in the news background to influence the market either way, analysts said. Observers said the surge was part of a year end rally that could extend into January.

Shortly before noon EST, the Dow Jones Industrial average, a 7.40-point loser the previous two sessions, was ahead 3.32 points to 855.64. The average will finish 1975 with a gain of more than 200 points for the year.

Advances led declines, 771 to 343, among the 1,551 issues crossing the tape. The 537 unchanged issues reflected some investor uncertainty, analysts said.

Turnover during the first two hours amounted to about 7,130,000 shares, compared with 6,850,000 traded during the same period Tuesday. Turnover this year broke all NYSE volume records.

The market will be closed today for the New Year's Day holiday.

State of nation's health care sickly in '75

by PATRICIA McCORMACK

The nation's health care system and the practice of medicine showed signs of running a fever in 1975. Neither is in the pink.

But if radical changes suggested by health care critics and other authorities occur, by the year 2000 the situation will be much improved.

The hope is that by the end of this century the nation will have entered the era of preventive medicine — as opposed to the current era which is disordered or crisis-oriented.

In this disease-centered period in the practice of medicine, most doctors treat illnesses after the symptoms have developed and are full-blown.

In the golden era of preventive medicine, less disease pops up due to the fact that individuals, working with the health care system, help to take better care of themselves. You die young, as late as possible, as a result.

Among authorities pointing to such a route for improvements in America's health care are Dr. John Knowles, president of the Rockefeller Foundation, and Dr. Ernst L. Wynder, president of the American Health Foundation.

THE TWO WERE among authorities participating in a blue-ribbon conference on Future Directions in Health Care recently in New York. The event was sponsored by the Rockefeller Foundation, Blue Cross Association and the University of California School of Medicine.

Walter J. McNerney, president of the Blue Cross Association, said there is a need to "wrestle control from the technocrats."

"We're on an unproductive path," he said.

"We need radical reforms and new points of view. But we are not alone. Other countries are crippled by arthritic institutions and the health care system in America is not the only one in difficulty."

Education is another victim of an arthritic institution, as McNerney sees it.

Since poverty and poor health tend to go hand in hand, McNerney believes no one thing would help improve the nation's health better than enactment of a guaranteed minimum income.

Some signs of the sick condition of the health care system which ate up $118 billion in 1975:

- Inflation and exorbitant costs for everything from a day in the hospital (nearing $200) to pills and doctor bills (some Medicaid doctors collecting over $200,000 a year) gave the nation's health economists the shivers by year's end.

- Looking to National Health Insurance, many forms of which are in the legislative wings in Washington, will take no pain out of the pocketbook. The daily rate for a hospital bed went up 17 per cent this year alone. "Labor leaders and everyone must understand the free lunch is over," Dr. Knowles said. The only way to pay for bigger health benefits from the government is "increased taxes," he said.

- Even with National Health Insurance, provided people sit still for bigger tax bills, there is no guarantee that things will improve by pouring in dollars. There is no guarantee either that the dollars will be spent with any thought of thrift or no squandering. Only recently has the Department of Health, Education and Welfare put investigators into the field to check up on the spending of billions a year for Medicaid. This, only after widespread cheating was disclosed, much of it by newspapers.

- Selfbacks medically during 1975 included two reports indicating the increase in cancer deaths was up nearly 6 per cent — compared to the usual 1 per cent hike. The health detectives are puzzled.

- Also: The Food and Drug Administration ordered an audit of data from a big study showing pills used by many diabetics did not benefit patients and may be hazardous.

- For the consumer of non-prescription drug items, the Food and Drug Administration revealed over-the-counter sleeping pills and stay-awake medications don't really do much good. Counting sheep or drinking lots of black coffee — for the respective conditions, insomnia and sleepiness — may be better.

- The oral contraceptive pill taken by some 10 million American women was judged to be not a good idea for women over 40 and new labels on packages of pills were to say so.

- Estrogen, given to some women in and after the change of life to help them hold on to a few youthful traits, was put on a cancer suspect list by two studies showing users got uterine cancer five-to-14 times more often than non-users.

- There was some drop in smoking cigarettes among white males over the age of 25, but smoking was up in female teen-agers. And lung cancer deaths, many linked to smoking, rose again.

- Traffic fatalities dropped by some 10,000 to an estimated 51,000 — continuing a trend that first showed up when the oil crisis forced the nation's speed limit down to 55 miles per hour. The first year such an effect showed was 1974 and the percentage drop over 1973 was 17 per cent — which safety authorities considered amazing.

There has been, however, no dent in another preventable factor in highways deaths — driving and drinking. The health community continued to be frustrated over the knowledge that 20 per cent of the accidents and deaths wouldn't happen on the highway if a way could be found to prevent people from driving after drinking and dulling their judgment.

On the good news front, the National Cancer Institute disclosed that it is pouring some $10 million into what is considered an increasingly promising field in cancer prevention and maybe treatment. That is, the link between cancer and diet.

MANY STUDIES, including some done by the World Health Organization, pointed to diet as the culprit in some cancers. The wrong kind of food, eaten long enough, may trigger cancer.

In countries where a lot of meat is eaten, for example, breast and colon cancers are much greater in number than in countries in which less meat is consumed.

On the mental health front, new theories being probed included this one:

If there is such a thing as psychosomatic illness, maybe there is such a thing as psychosomatic health. This is being studied at the Menninger Foundation in Kansas City, Mo., among other places.

A group at Harvard is testing the worth of meditation as a way of lowering blood pressure. Preliminary reports show many taking the "relaxed response" therapy are able to lower their blood pressure and stop using hypertension medicine.

What will the medical care system be like by the year 2,000? Rick J. Carlson, a consultant to the Institute of Medicine in Washington and author of "The End of Medicine" (Wiley), a new book in which he describes the scenario for a new medicine, gives some hints:

- There will be a medical care system organized around three facilities. The first is neighborhood hospital and learning center with fully staffed and equipped emergency care facilities.

- The second key facility is the regional health center. Costly and sophisticated treatment will be provided here, only on an in-patient basis. Referral will be made from the neighborhood facilities.

- Residential care complexes for the elderly will be the third type of facility. This type will stress self-care and responsibility but also will provide all necessary medical care on site.

- Health care teams will replace the solo physician. The teams will be hospital-based although they will be deployed in emergency situations. There will be no independent office practice; all practitioners will practice in hospital or home settings.

- Biomedical research will be refocused on social and environmental factors.

- The great emphasis will be on preventive medicine.

are

by KAREN THOMPSON

Year-end clearance. Sale of the year. Inventory savings. The signs and ads blaze out tidings of post-holiday sales.

January is traditionally the biggest bargain month of the year — just when you thought you were finished with the bump and grind at the shopping centers and your bank account is nearing empty.

Retailers are clearing out Christmas overstock to prepare for inventory and to make room to replenish shelves and racks with new spring merchandise.

According to Women's Wear Daily, stores across the nation reported record sales over the 1975 Christmas holidays. Ken Burke, manager of Carson Pirie Scott at Randolph, said that in many areas there is less sale merchandise now than a year ago — particularly Christmas cards and men's wear.

LARRY MAGASANO of J. C. Penney at Woodfield said the amount of merchandise reduced in price this year is much less than last year due to an increase in pre-Christmas buying.

"We tempered our inventories before the holidays as a result of last year's sluggish season. But the buying this year was much better than we expected which reduced greatly the amount of stock cut in price," he said.

He explained that this reduction applies only to clearance merchandise — items which will not go up to regular prices but will be lowered in price until sold. Sale items, on the other hand, are items included in the white sales which after a specific time will be returned to regular price.

The biggest reduction in January is the ever-popular white sale. Now labeled "linen sale," the sheets, pillow cases, blankets and other bath items shown today are not limited to white.

Instead, stripes, designer prints and flower garden motifs have become the way of life in bedroom and bath.

OTHER AREAS where prices have been slashed are men's, women's and children's outerwear, women's sportswear, cosmetics, shoes, jewelry and gift items. Strictly Christmas stock, such as cards, wrapping paper, toys, tree trimmings and holiday dresses are being sold at about half price.

There are certain precautions to take when shopping the sales. The first rule is to ask yourself: Do I really need this? Sale items are not a bargain if they end up on a shelf or hanging in the closet. Impulse buying seldom pays. A list of needed items might be a smart idea for the after-holiday sale shopper.

What is left over has been through the Christmas rush. Shopping sales takes time and a cautious eye. Look for missing buttons, pulled threads, makeup stains and other minor flaws when choosing your cut rate merchandise. Turn the garments inside out, check facings, width of seams, whether stitches are missing or broken, depth of hem if you plan to alter.

TRY ON whatever you plan to buy because size-shuffling is prevalent, especially after the holiday rush.

If the sale item must be assembled, make sure all the parts are included. It's best to buy unopened packages.

Whatever you're looking for, it's bound to be on sale somewhere. I overheard a conversation early this week that suggested gift-giving on New Year's next year so that the year-end tradition of sales can be used to advantage. Some folks already do that — for next Christmas.

What makes Judy run?

by IRA BERKOW

The ripe blonde in the lowcut black evening dress is alluring and winsome and horizontal and 44 feet long. And objectionable ("too sexy"), if you believe the Oregon State Liquor Control Commission. Yet one hell of a huckster, according to the sales figures for the Black Velvet whiskey that she pitches on billboards.

Judith Baldwin's job is to entice us to buy; she models print ads and acts in television commercials. She has moved quietly but decidedly into our lives, our homes, our consciousness — our pocketbooks.

Miss Baldwin is one of the top three or four in her rugged, competitive field, and earns over $100,000 a year.

IT MAY BE because of seeing her caress a man's chin that we have bought Gillette Shaving Cream; or shaving her legs, we desire Persol sunglasses; or drying her hair, Schick; or jumping slow-motion out of the ocean, the Virgin Islands; or soaping in the shower, Ivory; or rising in the morning, Exedrin; or watching her dog chase a tennis ball, Hartz Mountain Flea Collar.

These are just some of the 20 or so advertisements in which Miss Baldwin currently appears. She seems the symbolic quintessence of our consumption-oriented society; that is, what she has, we want — or, from her clients' view, we ought to want.

By accentuating the positive and eliminating the negative, she helps perpetuate myths. In turn, she is mythologized.

TO BEGIN WITH, she is not 44 feet long at all. She stands 5 feet and 7.5 inches. Nor is she the embodiment of human perfection. She sees herself as a mass of contradictions.

"Basically, I don't think I'm so attractive," she said recently, in her one-bedroom bachelor apartment on Manhattan's East Side. It was morning. Her hair was back and up. She wore no makeup, and had on a bulky white sweater and blue jeans and boots. The 29-year-old Miss Baldwin sat on a puffy couch and sipped coffee under and among a profusion of green plants.

"I've always been supercritical of myself," she went on. "I've always known what my faults are. I mean, I see myself when I get up in the morning."

"I HAVE A cleft in my chin that I think is too masculine-looking. I should have more hollowness in my cheeks. I have a terrible problem with circles underneath my eyes. My lips should be fuller. My hips are too broad. I'm always five or more pounds overweight."

"And my hair — I make a lot of money off of it. It's thick and shiny and good for hair commercials. But it's bone straight, and a pain. I wish it were naturally curly."

But she perseveres, which may not be as facetious as it reads.

When Judith Baldwin was 16 years old, living in Sausalito, Calif., her parents were killed in a car accident. She remembers that when she heard the news she did not cry, though she agonized. She reasoned, though, that life would have to get better, because how could it get any worse?

SHE AND HER younger sister and brother moved to their grandmother's ranch in Clovis, N. Mex. She was the new, beautiful girl in town, and it was not without drawbacks. She remembers being pursued by the boy friend of the president of the local high school sorority. Judith, not surprisingly, was blackballed from the sorority.

"I cried for days," she says. "It's crazy now. But it was so important then."

She remembers drawing inward, slowly closing up. "I was hurt so much by my parents' death, that I couldn't bear to be hurt again. And with each disappointment I grew more independent but more closed."

SHE WENT TO the University of Denver. She thought she could make a career in modeling and acting. ("Maybe I was trying to be a great escape artist.") She was turned down by modeling agencies in Denver and Los Angeles and New York because "I didn't know how to dress or use makeup, they told me."

"I'm super-critical of myself."

The doctor says

by Lawrence F. Lamb, M.D.

Weight pill her trouble?

About three months ago I was told I am slightly anemic. The doctor told me to take one iron tablet every day. I've been going to him for weight problems. I'm 16 and have reduced from 156 to 142 pounds. I have been taking Eskatrol for my weight and have been wondering if it contributed to my iron deficiency anemia.

I have also been given Erythromycin by a dermatologist for herpes on my left arm.

Does iron deficiency anemia, Eskatrol or Erythromycin cause severe headaches, neckaches, nightheadness and terrific black and blue marks?

I'm just a high school student and don't have any money to run to the nearest doctor, so I need your help.

I can't say without tests, but part of your problem could be the Eskatrol. It is a mixture of dextroamphetamine (go pills) and prochlorperazine. The latter is the drug that may be causing you trouble.

It can cause changes in the blood, including a tendency to have black and blue spots (technically known as thrombocytopenic purpura), and it can also cause muscle spasms, particularly of the head, neck and shoulders with headaches.

You should discuss this with your doctor and he may wish to discontinue this medicine in your case. The appetite suppression effect of the amphetamine only lasts a few weeks any way. You have probably gotten all the benefit you are going to get from it. At any rate you should check with your doctor any time you suspect unusual side effects from a medicine.

Also I hope your diet contains sufficient protein. Hemoglobin, the iron-carrying pigment in the red blood cells, is made from protein. Even if you have enough iron in your system, if you are deficient in protein you won't form enough hemoglobin to correct an iron deficiency anemia.

For more information on this problem, send in 50 cents for The Health Letter, number 24, with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Send your letter to me in care of Paddock Publications, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10010.

My father and my aunt have the same mother but different fathers. If I marry my aunt's daughter, can we have normal children in view of our blood relationship?

Since your father and aunt are half-brothers and sisters, they have the same general gene relationship to each other as first cousins normally do (the children of full brothers or sisters). Your aunt's daughter and you would have the same genetic relationship as the children of first cousins. That is close but not nearly as close as usual first cousins.

The only proper solution to your question is to have genetic counseling. Ask your family doctor to refer you to a nearby medical facility for this. They can help you by evaluating any diseases or characteristics that tend to occur in the family and their significance.

Intermarrying is not all bad. That is how pure-breeds are developed. The intermarrying merely re-enforces the characteristics. If the characteristic is a good one, the results are good, but if it is an undesirable characteristic, the results are not so good.

The home line

by Dorothy Ritz

How do you singe feathers off fowl?

Dear Dorothy: Maybe I'm growing cranky, but I'm hoping you've run into this problem and can help. I always had a gas stove so could easily singe the fuzz and pin feathers found on chickens. We now live in an apartment equipped with an electric stove and getting chickens clean has become a "cause" with me. Any answers? — Drucie Pritchett

Having gone through this dilemma, I sympathize. After I complained, that certain fellow bought me a singeing gadget, but it was equally frustrating. Then came two suggestions. One was to pass the chicken through the flame of a candle. The other was to put two tablespoons of rubbing alcohol in a foil dish in the sink and light it.

There are three things to keep in mind. The first is to rub the chicken with a paper towel so that the down and pinfeathers stand out. The second is use normal cautions with the flame, making sure there is nothing near that can catch fire easily. And last: Don't touch the foil pan until it has cooled.

Dear Dorothy: Somehow water seeped under a magazine on an end table and a small part of the paper is stuck to the wood. How does one get this off? — Jessica Rowland Put a drop of oil on the paper, rub gently and the paper should come off.

Dear Dorothy: When want to cover a meringue-topped pie with waxed paper or foil, I place a few toothpicks at equidistant spots to hold up the cover so the meringue won't stick. — Mrs. Tom Jewitt

Dear Dorothy: I find that when I buy house tomatoes, keeping them at room temperatures until they are really red and then refrigerating gives them a much better taste. — Jean Madlinger

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to her in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 200, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60005.)

New appliance warranties deserve a close reading

Be sure to save and read the warranties on your new Christmas hair dryers, toasters and other products. Some of those guarantees are not in compliance with the new federal Warranties Act, which means you are entitled to better coverage than the manufacturer has indicated.

Although the law went into effect last July 4, the Federal Trade Commission is still in the process of writing rules specifying exactly how the law is to be carried out. Many manufacturers, waiting to see what the rules will call for, have not revised their old warranties.

For example, Norelco enclosed with its drip coffemaker this Christmas a warranty that is not labeled a "limited" warranty and that includes a disclaimer of implied warranties. Both are prohibited by the new law.

BY CONTRAST, Toastmaster's waffle iron contained both the old and a new warranty. The new warranty was designated "limited," it eliminated the disclaimer of implied warranties, and instead of requiring the consumer to mail the product prepaid to the manufacturer, it directed consumers simply to bring the product back to the dealer if defective.

Since the situation admittedly is unclear for both manufacturers and consumers right now, the Association of Home Appliance Manufacturers advises that anyone who has a malfunctioning product bring it back to the dealer first, regardless of what the warranty may say. If the problem is not solved at the dealer level, consumers should notify the manufacturer and/or the Major Appliance Consumer Action Panel, 20 N. Wacker Dr., Chicago, 60606.

The consumer

by Monica Wilch Perin

SECRETARY OF Agriculture Earl Butz will represent President Ford at a public meeting Jan. 13 at Northwestern University to discuss plans for a network of consumer representatives in the federal government.

The plan, proposed by Ford last spring, has been attacked by critics as a face-saving device to soften Ford's expected veto of a consumer advocacy agency.

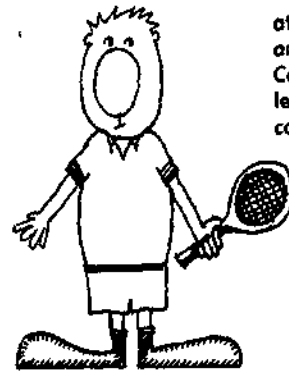

The meeting will begin at 8:30 a.m. in the Pick-Stanger Concert Hall on the Evanston campus.

New column

Starting with the Jan. 8 edition of Suburban Living, Monica Perin will be writing a new column, Keeping up. She will continue to write about consumer matters but also will keep readers up to date on what's happening in such areas as the women's movement, health and medicine.

Christmas flowering plants not meant to last

I detest flowering holiday-type houseplants. So I'm refraining from a ritualistic post-holiday column on how to extend the life of flowering plants you got for Christmas.

There's no big deal to keeping them anyway. Other than seeing that they don't dry out, are out of direct sunlight, off the fireplace, TV, radiators, there's not a whole lot anyone can do to keeping them growing longer.

After working for a number of florists, I sometimes wonder how the poinsettias, azaleas, Christmas cactus, cyclamen, etc., even get delivered alive in the first place! Pinched into plastic bags, smashed in the delivery van, taken out in the chill, Christmas plants that last until Christmas are often a matter of luck. Anyway, florist flowers aren't meant to live on like Methuselah.

SOME FLOWERING houseplants last too long the way it is. Some new strains of poinsettias have been developed to last until almost Easter. And to me that is like unto the extended Bicentennial promotions.

Think about it! How many flowering holiday-type houseplants can stand on the merits of their leaves alone? Without their blossoms, most flowering holiday houseplants are nothing to look at. Take poinsettias, for instance. Their milky juice and spindly stems, and blah green leaves leave me cold. Cut off the colorful bracts and what do you have?

But the houseplant grown for its foliage alone is another matter entirely. If it never blooms, it is all right with me. Such plants don't need a flower as a crutch to "make it" in a popularity poll.

WE TALK A lot about flowering houseplants and these grown solely for their attractive foliage in the houseplant course I teach for Nicolet College in Milwaukee, Wis. The new semester starts in mid-February and runs one evening a week for six weeks. So if any of you are up that way for an extended vacation or a winter sojourn at your second home, you might want to inquire further about this credit offering.

But enough of houseplant talk, there's another timely concern that has me worried. It's the scanty snow-cover in the Chicago area this winter. Snow is needed as protective natural winter overcoat for garden plants.

by Mary B. Good

Scanty snowcover means trouble for many area gardeners, in the form of winter kill. If you don't want your evergreen and other delicate outdoor plantings to brown and even possibly die come spring, water the plants on days the temperature hits 40 (if it ever does) and consider chopping up your Christmas tree when it is time to take the tree down. Lay the branches over delicate plants that might be vulnerable to winter kill.

STRAW OR HAY is an alternative winter protection in place of evergreen branches. Some plants — like rhododendron, azaleas, euonymus — may have to be wrapped in tar paper or insulation batting and sprayed with an anti-desiccant like Wilt-Pruf. Check your garden to see what plants are suffering from frost getting too deeply in the ground due to scant snow cover.

And if you should decide not to chop your Christmas tree as winter protection for other plants, leave the tree in the yard as a wind shield and safe harbor for birds. You can always use it as a yule log in your fireplace at some future date.

Happy New Year to all.

What makes Judy run?

In 1965, she came in second in the Miss U.S.A. contest, in which one of the contestants had a child out of wedlock, another was a kleptomaniac and a third wore falsies in her bathing suit. ("All pretty shocking for a small-town girl," she said.) Second place got her modeling assignments, though, and then TV commercials. Most recently, she had a small part in the movie "The Stepford Wives."

"I would like to get into acting more," she said. "Modeling and commercials can become boring and stilted. Also, it is so fiercely competitive. When you are sitting in an audition room with the other girls — there is an entire psyche-out game going on. One girl might say, 'Judy, what did you do to your hair this morning? It looks awful.' She's trying to upset me so I'll audition poorly. So I try to hide myself behind a magazine until my name is called."

SHE SOMETIMES wonders, in doing commercials, if she is not always being true to herself. "I don't use all the products I endorse," she said. "But then, I try not to feel hypocritical. I mean, I do have to pay my rent."

Being 44 feet long, though, does help provide her with recognition — and accordingly, the love — she says she has missed since "my parents left."

"I know that I will have to confront their death all my life," she said. "I have chosen to pick the positive side. If I could handle their death, I figure I can handle anything. There is nothing else I couldn't face."

Press reexamines its ethical standards

This is a time of introspection for the nation's press.

The public, which once took its major institutions for granted, has grown skeptical of the press just as it has grown wary of government, politics, business, labor and virtually every other center of power.

Criticism of the press has been mixed, some scurrilous, some valid, some aimed more at the practice of freedom than at the press itself. There have been unprecedented attacks on the press in recent years through the courts, in the open political arena and in the political back alleys of Richard Nixon's Washington.

Criticism is leveled at others by the press every publication day, and the nation's press is strong enough to accept its share of criticism. Criticism, in fact, is healthy so long as it is constructive and brings positive results. While some of the attacks have threatened the foundations of press freedom, the general public skepticism has had a healthy impact.

The nation's editors have become more critical of themselves. They have begun dissecting their daily product and the manner in which they serve the public's interest.

Press organizations have renewed their efforts to establish high standards of professionalism in the industry, to draw up a strong code of ethics and to create an atmosphere of trust between journalists and the people.

We, too, are involved in the process of evaluation, and we intend, during this Bicentennial year, to scrutinize the responsibilities our founding fathers gave all newsmen and women when they included freedom of the press in the First Amendment.

For many years, Paddock Publications has maintained policies designed to protect the professional standing of its newspapers and news department employees.

Reporters, writers, copy editors and photographers are expected to refrain from any expression for or against any political candidate, social or political philosophy, organization, moral or social issue while performing in an official capacity for The Herald.

Reporters and editors have been asked to forego some of the standard rights of private citizens and are prohibited from publicly aligning themselves with partisan politics, from holding elected or appointed office or from wearing campaign buttons and symbols that represent candidates, philosophies, organizations or issues.

Reporters are expected to present both sides in their stories and to be dedicated to detail, accuracy and objectivity.

This newspaper accepts its responsibility to keep opinions out of its news stories and confine them to the editorial page or clearly labeled columns. We also are committed to correcting errors of fact or omission as quickly as possible.

The dawn of a new year is a time for new and stronger resolutions. To our readers we resolve to use our present ethics policies as a base for an even more carefully defined statement of journalistic principle.

And while that statement is being formulated, we resolve to continue striving for the highest professionalism, to refrain from conflicts of interest, to insure our news content is accurate, balanced and free of deliberate bias, to serve as a watchdog for the public and to stand accountable for the fairness and accuracy of our staff.

Regulation critics eye civil aviation agency

by TOM WELLMAN
(Fourth in a series)

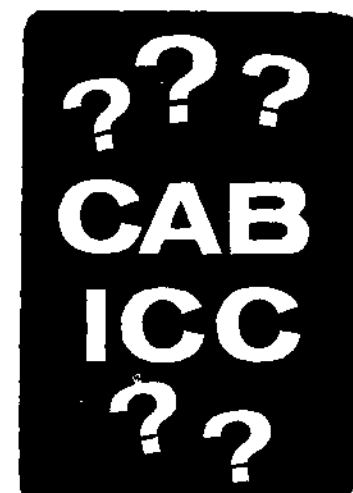

The ICC isn't the only U.S. regulatory agency to feel the hot winds of reform blow through its halls in 1976. On Oct. 8, President Ford unveiled a reform plan for the Civil Aeronautics Board, which governs commercial airline scheduling and rates. The proposal is designed to make the airline industry more competitive and responsive to the needs and to the budgets of passengers.

The plan is somewhat similar to the one proposed for the ICC. Included are proposals:

- To allow airlines to raise and lower some fares without CAB approval.
- To make it easier for airlines to fly new routes, and to encourage new airlines to enter the field.
- To block the CAB from approving anti-competitive agreements among airlines.

As with Ford's ICC plan, reaction came quickly. The Air Transport Assn., whose members include virtually all scheduled airlines, said the plan would "adversely affect" airline passengers.

But while the air carriers were reacting, the CAB had been moving for several months to deregulate itself and thus deflect criticism. In July it had asked for fare and route experiments in the Northeastern part of the United States.

A month earlier the agency had unexpectedly rejected a series of fare increases proposed by United, Eastern, American and TWA.

In defending the rejections — the first in many years, according to reports — the CAB argued that 5 to 6 per cent increases would mean a profit return for the airlines above the long-established 12 per cent figure.

THESE AND other proposals for change are not unexpected, when you consider the criticism which recently has been heaped on this 37-year-old agency.

The CAB is a relative newcomer to the regulatory field. It was formed in 1938 when the shaky and fly-by-night nature of commercial aviation concerned many government officials.

The airlines, under the shelter of CAB supervision, have made air travel an everyday occurrence for many Americans. In the 1960s, thanks to the introduction of the jet engine, the airlines were able to cut fuel usage and enjoy a period of relative affluence.

BUT THE introduction of the uneconomical jumbo jets in the past decade, coupled with rising fuel prices, the recession and a growing national consumer movement, have made life uncomfortable for the airlines.

This means, of course, more criticism for the CAB, which must regulate 58,000 interstate routes as well as fares.

The major complaint against the CAB is that it discourages competition among airlines. Rather than reducing fares on competitive routes, airlines battle each other by scheduling more flights. In turn, the competition becomes one of scheduling and "frills" — pub bars, first-run movies, liquor and so forth. There's no competition over air fares.

IF FEWER passengers use the airlines, air fares will rise, according to the critics. They put it this way: as prices rise, demand goes down; as demand drops, the airlines' unit costs go up, so they must spread costs over fewer passengers. This encourages more fare increases and fewer passengers, and the cycle starts anew.

However, in the CAB's files is a proposal which could turn this cycle around by encouraging competition on a coast-to-coast route. World Airways, which made a business of flying cargo between the United States and Vietnam, has proposed an $89 one-way fare, or about one-half the present fare.

If the proposal is approved by the CAB, and World Airways cuts into the business of other airlines on the route, then reduced fares and increased travel might result — or at least that's what the proposal's backer says would happen.

INTERSTATE regulation is attacked on other grounds, too. The critics report that airlines operating wholly within Texas and California are able to undercut fares on CAB-regulated interstate airlines by as much as 40 or 50 per cent. And neither state airline — Pacific Southwest in California and Southwest Airlines in Texas — has gone broke.

CAB officials argue, however, that the U.S. airline system is the best in the world, and part of that achievement is due to regulation. They also contend that air fares are actually 62 per cent less, in constant dollar costs, than they were in 1938.

But the critics of the CAB will not be easily silenced. A total of 200 million Americans flew in commercial airlines in 1974, and thus deregulation — with the implication of lower fares — is a popular topic. As the Congressional battle over CAB deregulation shapes up, it's clear that it will be watched with intense interest by millions of Americans.

Resolved: To lower food bills in 1976

by Barbara Ladd

The continual ringing of cash registers in the grocery store sound as loudly as the ringing in of 1976 last night. But many consumers have resolved to find ways to outsmart their own food bills.

"The old answer would be not buying convenience foods," said Lynn Bredemeyer, Cook County Extension Home Economist in the Rolling Meadows office. "Now that's not necessarily true — staple items have gone up and your time is a factor."

She suggested the biggest savings could come from watching what is purchased at the meat counter. "People are used to more meat than they need," she said. "But I think they are discovering alternate sources of meat more now than ever before."

Mary Ernst, Arlington Heights, agrees.

She has been feeding at least 10 people each day for nine years. The group includes her seven children, four nieces and nephews and her mother-in-law. Two are on special diets — one a gluten-free and the other a diabetic diet.

She spends only $70 a week on food and fixes meat just three days a week.

"We're all remarkably healthy. I don't even buy vitamins," she said. "I believe if we eat right that's what keeps us healthy."

On days Mrs. Ernst doesn't plan for meat, she has dishes with eggs, cheese or dried beans. When she does purchase meat, she buys that without the bone. "I go by servings and not by the pound," she said.

A pressure cooker helps tenderize tougher, but inexpensive cuts.

Mrs. Ernst always has a list written before she shops, she said. "Then I take one of the kids and we split the list and buy what's on it."

Her two rules are don't impulse buy and do eat before you leave, she said.

But she is flexible enough to take advantage of store specials — particularly on canned goods.

"And I never buy steak," she laughed. "I pray for winter cooking with all the stews and casseroles. Even buying hamburger for a summer barbecue for 10 people costs a lot."

For years she has been mixing dried and fluid milk for an added savings. And she always has extras of items like catsup and canned vegetables and fruits "so I don't keep running to the store and seeing other things I'd like to buy," she said.

Every person in her household except her husband makes his or her own lunch — even the little 6-year-old. "That way they take only what they eat and want and there's no waste," she said.

Rarely are there leftovers in the Ernst house. Therefore, very little food is thrown away or wasted.

Mary Ernst admits her cooking situation is "unique." But she said she could be easily spending $150 a week on food instead of $70. "We are eating well and we prefer to spend our money in other places," she said.

Other families also may wish to spend their money in places other than the supermarket. Mrs. Bredemeyer said it is more difficult for smaller families to realize as great a savings on food as bigger ones, since quantity packaging and other money saving ideas can't be utilized as efficiently in small families.

She suggested anyone who wants help outsmarting the cash register should telephone the Extension Office at 991-1160.

For older people

Are frozen dinners too costly?

by THE EDITORS OF CONSUMER REPORTS
(Ninth in a Series)

People who live alone or cook only for themselves and one other person may be especially tempted to buy packaged frozen foods because they're so easy to prepare. For the benefit of those who might prefer to pop a frozen chicken dinner into the oven instead of preparing a chicken from scratch, Consumers Union reported on tests of frozen chicken dinners in the June 1975 issue of Consumer Reports. Consumers Union's tests showed that some of the frozen chicken dinners fared quite well in terms of taste.

Two brands of chicken dinners were rated Very Good: Banquet and Swanson. Chicken dinners of the following two brands were rated Good: Morton and Sultana. The rest of the chicken dinners Consumers Union tested were judged either Fair or Poor, although all were considered Acceptable.

Consumers Union discovered that the price of a frozen chicken dinner was not the best guide to what you get for your money. For instance, when we checked prices in August 1975 the Swanson Entree, which included chicken and whipped potatoes cost about 59 cents for a total of 8 ounces. The Swanson 3-Course Dinner, which included chicken and whipped potatoes plus corn in sauce, vegetable soup, and apple cake cobbler, cost 99 cents for a total of 15 ounces. The Swanson 3-Course Dinner did contain those three additional items, but it cost over 60 per cent more than the chicken-and-whipped-potato dinner and gave you extra food of little nutritional value.

The biggest problem with frozen chicken dinners is the cost in terms of the protein provided. The cost per 20 grams of protein in a Swanson 3-Course Dinner was 58 cents, based on August 1975 prices — definitely not a good value. The cost per 20 grams of protein for the Swanson Entree was 49 cents — better, but still no bargain.

If you think peanut butter is just for kids, think again. Peanut butter is actually one of the best protein buys around. Two peanut butter sandwiches and a glass of skim milk provide more than half the recommended daily allowance of protein for most people.

Another advantage of peanut butter is that it's low in saturated fat. Peanut butter is an economical alternative to cheese and canned tuna. For the price and nutritive value, peanut butter is hard to beat.

However, to put it simply, cold cuts are an expensive way to fill your need for protein and canned meats cost even more than cold cuts. In August 1975, at a suburban New York supermarket, a four and one-half ounce can of Underwood Deviled Ham cost the equivalent of $2.38 per pound. And 32 per cent of that pound is fat. Remember, you pay a stiff price for the convenience of canned and packaged meats.

Proven savers

A recent one-city survey evaluating the cost but not the quality of convenience foods found that nine items were proven savers. They were pitted cherries, cranberry sauce, beef pot pie, chicken chow mein, fish sticks, frozen orange juice concentrate, frozen French fries, canned beef stew and canned spaghetti.

Leftovers take on Oriental flavor

by LOIS SEILER

Homemakers should not assume that Egg Foo Young is solely the province of experienced Chinese chefs. Connie Maass, Arlington Heights, has an easy recipe for even the novice to prepare. As is often her fashion, she obtains ideas from cookbooks, makes substitutions and devises her own concoctions. Versatile Egg Foo Young can be adapted to leftover beef, pork, shrimp or crabmeat, which is helpful for post-holiday cooking.

The meat is mixed with onion, celery, bean sprouts and eggs, then fried in the shape of round patties. Nourishing as well as delicious, it is served with a flavorful mushroom gravy, which also tastes good over rice. Soy sauce should be made available for additional seasoning.

Connie is also well-known among her friends for Kringle, a unique cake-like cookie. She received the recipe for this Scandinavian delicacy several years ago from a friend in Iowa. Since then it has become a favorite of her husband, Bill and sons Michael, 7, and Stephen, 4.

A soft batter is prepared a day ahead and refrigerated overnight. Then small pieces of dough are rolled into sausage-like strips and formed into pretzel shapes on a cookie sheet. Baked for a very short time in a hot oven, they rise quite a bit but remain white and are only slightly brown around the edges.

"They can be served anytime as you would a cookie, for coffee parties, dessert, lunches or after-school snacks," Connie said.

Another of her specialties is an overnight cabbage salad. It consists of cabbage and onion rings assembled in layers with a sprinkling of sugar. A hot, tangy sauce is poured over all, and the salad marinates overnight.

"It tastes similar to a sweet-sour cole slaw, and even the onions are delightful," Connie said. The salad is ideal for a big crowd and she often uses it for summer barbecues.

Cooking is just one of Connie's many hobbies. She enjoys sewing, macramé, ceramics and furniture refinishing. She participates in all types of sports, including women's softball and is also active in the Junior Woman's Club and works part-time at G. D. Searle and Co.

EGG FOO YOUNG

- 1 1/2 cups canned Chinese bean sprouts
- 1/4 cup onions, sliced thin and one inch long
- 1/2 cup celery, sliced very thin and two inches long
- 8 to 10 eggs
- Salt
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 2 cups cooked pork, ham or beef, sliced in long strips or whole baby shrimp or shredded crabmeat

Drain bean sprouts and press out extra water. Mix well with meat and remaining vegetables.

In another bowl, beat eggs slightly with fork; add pepper and 1/4 teaspoon salt if using ham, or 1 1/2 teaspoons salt if using other meat. Pour egg mixture over meat-and-vegetable mixture and toss with two forks.

Pour 1/4 cup of mixture into a hot, heavy skillet that has about 1/8-inch oil in it. Each patty should be about four inches in diameter. Cook about 3 or 4 at a time. Lower heat and cook about five minutes on each side or just until lightly-browned, turning only once. Recipe makes about 12 to 15 patties. Serves 4 to 6 people. Prepare the following gravy:

- 3 cups boiling water
  - 4 beef bouillon cubes
  - 1/4 cup butter
  - 1/4 cup cornstarch
  - 1/2 teaspoon Chinese molasses
  - 1 pound fresh, sauteed mushrooms
- Combine boiling water and bouillon cubes and let cool to lukewarm. In another pan, melt butter; add cornstarch and blend well. Slowly pour in bouillon, stirring constantly. Cook until thick and clear. Add molasses and mushrooms. Serve over Egg Foo Young and cooked rice.

Clarification

The Dec. 18 issue of Sugar 'n' Spice featured Marge Lantz and her recipe of Ting-a-lings. Recently she reported several telephone calls from readers questioning the amount of corn flakes needed in the recipe.

Her recipe reads "2 cups corn flakes, crushed." Mrs. Lantz said the corn flakes should be crushed after the two cups of flakes are measured.

FOR DESSERT with ice cream or dough contains a large amount of for an after school snack, Kringle is a mild-flavored treat in Connie Maass's household. The soft leavening which allows the pretzel shapes to puff up, creating interesting designs.

Herald food price survey

Consumers wanting butter this month are in for bad news. The price per pound of butter is up another 10 cents from December and 20 cents or more higher from November, according to a Tuesday morning price survey of five area chain food stores.

The U.S. Dept. of Agriculture, in its Food Marketing Alert, reports the January supply for butter is 78 per cent below last year.

Meat prices average slightly lower than last month, with beef and chicken in plentiful supply, according to the USDA. Ground beef is down an average of 10 cents per pound in the surveyed stores and round steak is down nearly 20 cents-per pound from the December readings.

At Jewel, round steak dropped 75 cents a pound and pork chops were down 20 cents a pound with other meat prices nearly unchanged from the last survey. Icaberg lettuce was only 28 cents per head — a 30-cent decrease from December and lowest of the stores surveyed.

Ground beef was down 10 cents a pound at Butera. But a dozen eggs were 8 cents more and butter was up 20 cents a pound from the last survey. Bananas were only 12 cents a pound, which is 7 cents less than December and lowest of the five stores surveyed.

National prices for ground beef were 20 cents per pound under the December quotation and round steak was about 75 cents per pound less. In the dairy and egg section a trend comparable to the one at Butera was noted.

Ground beef and round steak both increased 10 cents a pound from last month at Treasure Island, but chicken and pork chop prices remained unchanged. With the exception of a 10-cent per pound increase in butter, prices throughout the store were relatively unchanged from December.

At A&P ground beef was up 10 cents per pound, offsetting a 10-cent per pound decrease in round steak. Good buys were noted throughout the fresh fruit and vegetable counters. Both navel oranges and white grapefruit were the least expensive of the five stores surveyed.

Turkey rolls perk post-holiday blahs

Turkey rolls are easy to prepare and cheaper than buying a large turkey for one person or a couple. Here are some unusual recipes to dress up plain rolled turkey breast or regular turkey rolls.

TURKEY MOLE

2 green peppers, cut and seeded
2 small onions, peeled
2 cans (1 pound each) tomatoes
1 can (4 ounces) pimiento, drained
1/2 cup blanched almonds (optional)
1 cup salad oil
1 tablespoon chili powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon Tabasco pepper sauce
1/8 teaspoon cinnamon
1/8 teaspoon ground cloves
2 bouillon cubes
1/4 cup fine dry bread crumbs
1 square (1 ounce) unsweetened chocolate
8 slices cooked turkey or 3 cups diced cooked turkey

Put peppers, onions, tomatoes, pimiento and almonds in electric blender container. Cover and blend 1 minute or until smooth. Heat oil in skillet. Add pureed vegetable mixture, seasonings and bouillon cubes. Bring to a boil. Reduce heat; cover and simmer 30 minutes. Stir in bread crumbs and chocolate. Heat, stirring occasionally, until chocolate is melted. Layer with turkey slices in a two and one-half quart casserole, or on large oven-proof platter. Bake in 350 degree oven about 20 minutes. Serve with rice. makes 8 servings.

TURKEY CHOWDER

turkey carcass
2 quarts water
1 teaspoon monosodium glutamate (MSG)
1 teaspoon salt
3 sprigs parsley
2 stalks celery with leaves
2 medium onions, sliced
1 bayleaf
1 bouillon cube
1/2 teaspoon thyme
4 carrots, pared and sliced
1/3 cup uncooked rice
1 can (1 pound) cream style corn

Remove meat from carcass; reserve. Break up carcass and place in a large, deep kettle. Add water, MSG, salt, parsley, celery, onions, bay leaf, bouillon cube and thyme. Bring to a boil. Cover; reduce heat and simmer 1 hour. Strain stock and return to kettle. Add carrots and rice; cover and cook 20 minutes, or until rice is tender. Add corn and turkey; heat to serving temperature. Makes approximately 2 quarts.

TURKEY DIVAN

4 tablespoons butter or margarine
4 tablespoons flour
1/4 teaspoon salt
2 cups chicken or turkey stock or bouillon

Egg Foo Young features leftover meat

KRINGLA

2 cups granulated sugar
1 cup soft butter or margarine
2 eggs
2 cups buttermilk
2 teaspoons baking soda
4 cups flour
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 teaspoon baking powder
Pinch of salt

Beat butter, sugar and eggs together thoroughly. Slowly pour in buttermilk and baking soda. Add flour one cup at a time, beating after each addition. Beat in vanilla, baking powder and salt. Cover tightly and refrigerate overnight.

The next day, flour hands well. Take a generous teaspoon of dough and roll into a ball in your hands. Then roll between the palms into a strip. Place on floured surface and roll to a strip 5 to 6 inches long. Twist into a pretzel shape or twist into a spiral shape on lightly-greased cookie sheets. Bake at 475 degrees about 3 to 5 minutes, only until bottom is lightly-browned. Top stays white. Remove immediately and cool. Store in covered tin or freeze.

OVERNIGHT CABBAGE SALAD
1 medium cabbage
2 large white onions
1/2 cup sugar
1 cup cider vinegar
1 teaspoon celery seed
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup salad oil

Slice cabbage thin with a knife. Slice onions and separate into rings. Alternate layers of these two vegetables in a large bowl, starting and ending with cabbage. Sprinkle sugar over this, covering the top.

In a saucepan, bring to boil the vinegar, celery seed, mustard and salt. Then add oil and bring to a boil again. Pour hot dressing over cabbage; do not stir. Cover, seal tightly and refrigerate at least 24 hours. Serves 12.

1/4 teaspoon Tabasco sauce
1/4 cup grated Parmesan cheese
1/2 cup heavy cream
1/2 package (8 ounces) rigatoni, cooked
1 10-ounce package frozen broccoli, thawed
1 1/2 cups diced cooked turkey

Melt butter; add flour and salt and stir to a smooth paste. Gradually add chicken stock and cook, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and comes to a boil. Remove from heat, stir in pepper sauce, cheese and cream. Put hot cooked rigatoni in a greased 2-quart casserole. Top with broccoli and turkey; pour sauce over-all. Bake in a 350 degree oven 40 minutes, or until broccoli is tender. To serve, sprinkle with additional grated Parmesan cheese.

Housing upswing forecast for new year

by LEA TONKIN

Home buyers look for a gradual improvement in the Chicago area market during 1976.

That means ready access to mortgage money, not lower prices, said several industry experts. Consumers will increasingly demand creative, economical use of housing space.

Renewed consumer confidence and an ample supply of home financing funds should trigger an upswing in the local housing industry, predicted Roland Barstow, president of Bell Federal Savings and Loan Assn., Chicago.

"The improved number of new home permits started in May and has continued strong into the last quarter of 1975," Barstow said. "This is evidence that the sluggish housing industry may be ready to make a stronger contribution to the over-all economic recovery. However, recovery in apartment construction is essential to any full-fledged recovery in housing. As a result, builders will have to become a great deal more confident that they can sell or rent new multiple-family units in addition to the current backlog."

NEW SINGLE-FAMILY home construction is doing well in comparison with the apartment market, Barstow said.

"What's in store for the thousands of families who will be in the market for homes in the next year?"

First, there will be a good supply of single-family homes for those who have the ability to buy. Mortgages are likely to be fairly readily available. Interest rates will probably remain stable. Also, I see less pretentious homes and a movement back to the basics," he said.

Gimmickry is gone from the housing market, said Gene Dreyfus, partner with Jack Chids in a Chicago interior design firm.

Roland Barstow

ner with Jack Chids in a Chicago interior design firm.

"The quality of the square foot is not so much in how much we've got, but how well planned and how well they solve the problems of the buyer," said Dreyfus.

"WE'RE IN A consumer revolution," Dreyfus said. "The consumers work very hard for their money. They will not buy something they feel is not the best for their money."

Builders are dropping the "big syndrome" in favor of well-planned space that solves the buyer's problems within a budget, he said, adding, "People want a sincere, realistic approach to housing."

The back-to-the-basics trend is seconded by Jerry Berger, president of Hoffman Homes Division of the Hoffman Rosner Corp., Hoffman Estates. A majority of home buyers can afford units in the $30,000 to $40,000 price range, though rising costs continue to whittle away buying power, he said.

"What we are witnessing is a successful compromise. Buyers are acknowledging the need to simplify their housing dreams and builders are turning to a more basic product, perhaps smaller homes on larger lots with fewer frills," Berger said. Smaller bedrooms, less than two baths and the construction of one-car garages or no garage are the results of the compromise.

"It's still the American dream, but on a smaller scale," Berger said. He predicted a 25 per cent increase in new housing construction for 1976, from 1.2 million to 1.5 million housing units in the U.S.

CONSUMER confidence and the supply of mortgage money will contribute to a favorable housing sales year, said Robert Frommer, president of United Development Co. The firm, a subsidiary of Urban Investment and Development Co., is selling units at Village on the Lake in Elk Grove Village and two other Chicago area locations.

Sales of existing, or used homes in the Northwest suburbs should be "fantastic" in 1976, said Robert Zaun, president of the Homefinders, Realtors sales company, Palatine.

"I never looked forward to a year as much, because of the availability of money," Zaun said. "Rates are not at their maximum and the savings and loan associations are loaded."

He said he expects an increase in

Supply, demand to prevail; few apartments, rent hikes

Apartment dwellers can expect rent hikes and a decline in the number of available units at some Chicago area locations.

That the prediction of William Sally, vice president and general manager of Baird & Warner Inc.'s property management division, Chicago Sally said vacancy rates in suburban apartment complexes average 7 to 12 per cent. The figure will drop sharply because of the lack of new construction, he said.

A shortage of some 9,400 apartment units could develop in the Chicago metropolitan area during the coming two years, Sally said. The drop in apartment vacancies will affect the Northwest suburbs less than areas such as Oak Park, North Shore suburbs and the Near North Side of Chicago, he said.

SALLY SAID there were 1.1 million rental units in the Chicago metropolitan area in 1970. The units accounted for 45 per cent of the total housing inventory. The housing inventory increased 24,000 units a year for the past several years except 1975 when the growth rate dropped to an estimated 12,000 units. Based on population increases in the area, Sally calculates an additional 21,404 units a year are needed to meet the trends.

"We expect household formation to continue to grow at least at the rate of the past few years, indicating a shortage of 9,400 apartment units a year — the difference between 21,404 new rental households and 12,000 or fewer new apartment units," Sally said.

The property management said low rents are partly responsible for the drop in apartment construction. Rents will increase as the apartment shortage materializes, he said. He cited rising costs for fuel, utilities and other expenses.

existing home sales to start in January.

"I THINK WE Americans have been sitting back in the last year and a half, taking a look-see position," Zaun said. "Now we're coming out of our shell."

Potential home buyers are on the street looking at homes in all price ranges for the first time in two years, Zaun said.

Robert Walters, senior vice president and general manager of residential sales for the Baird & Warner Inc. realty firm, said strong first half sales of existing homes can be expected. The back-to-basics approach by home builders may spark added sales of existing homes by consumers who want bigger and better homes, he said. The critical factor in home sales during 1976 will be the supply of home loan financing, Walters said.

IRS offers advice to homeowners

The Internal Revenue Service offers information to taxpayers on home and apartment ownership. Among the frequently asked questions answered by the agency are:

I am going to sell my home and I just finished wallpapering some of the rooms. Can the expense be added to my home's cost basis?

Expenses such as painting and wallpapering are considered maintenance expenses, not improvements. They cannot be added to the basis of your home. You can claim the wallpapering as a fix-up expense if you were attempting to make the home more salable.

In order to qualify as a fix-up expense, the work must be done within 90 days of the contract signing for the sale of your house. The expenses must be paid within 30 days of the date of the sale. You can claim the fix-up expenses only if you are buying another house and postponing the tax on the gain from the sale of your old residence. For more information, ask for the free IRS booklet 523, "Tax Information on Selling Your Home."

I own a one-third share in an apartment house and share the maintenance expenses. How much of these expenses can I deduct?

When you own a part interest in rental property, you may deduct only your proportionate share of the expenses, in your case one third, even if you pay more or less than your share.

1975 a record year for lending money

Although the final statistics are not available, 1975 was likely a record year for residential lending by mortgage bankers.

The Mortgage Bankers Assn. of America said mortgage companies made a seasonally adjusted $11.1 billion in home loans during the first nine months of the year, a 10 per cent increase above compared to year-earlier figures. The association said total 1975 loan volume would reach $15 billion. That would mark a 10 per cent boost compared to the previous record in 1972.

"This record level of activity reflects the spectacular consumer demand for housing," said John M. Wetmore, the group's chief economist. "Monthly sales of existing homes increased dramatically during 1975 and set records in September and October. Nine months of the year, a 10 per cent New home sales were also strong, especially when condominium sales figures are included."

Prospects are bright for 1976 home mortgage loans, Wetmore said.

FTC to investigate real estate industry

The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) has announced plans to investigate the real estate industry.

An FTC attorney in Washington said Monday the agency plans a nationwide industry study to determine whether there are anticompetitive or unfair practices in violation of the Federal Trade Commission Act.

The commission will look at possible restriction on real estate trade by real estate associations, multiple-listing services and other organizations.

Trends indicate sufficient mortgage financing in '76

by United Press International

There should be enough mortgage money for most home and apartment purchasers in 1976 if the recent trend in savings continues, according to one authority.

Norman Strunk, vice president of the U.S. League of Savings Associations, predicted, "There will be no lack of mortgage money if recent favorable trends at the savings windows continues in 1976."

Almost 1.5 million homes and apartments in the United States were purchased in 1975 through financing provided by savings and loan associations, according to a year-end report of the USLSA.

THE YEAR-END figures included 1.2 million existing units, 1 million single-family homes and 220,000 apartments. New housing loans financed 230,000 new single-family homes and 100,000 new apartment units.

Mortgage-lending volume of savings and loan associations reached an estimated $85 billion during the year to bring the total mortgages on the books to an estimated $278 billion. Lending volume in 1975 was $16 billion higher than in 1974 to set an all-time record.

"The record of 1975 emphasized that the savings and loan business is by far the principal supplier of mortgage money to the nation," Strunk said.

"In this country there are approximately 22 million home mortgages, and of these, savings and loans hold more than 13 million."

"Housing demand should strengthen somewhat in 1976, but we expect only a gradual recovery for new homes and apartments," Strunk said. "However, we predict another strong year for the existing house market and for mortgage lending."

Housing woes hinge on hike in aid, bankers say

The nation's housing problems will not be solved by increased mortgage funds, American Bankers Assn. (ABA) spokesmen said.

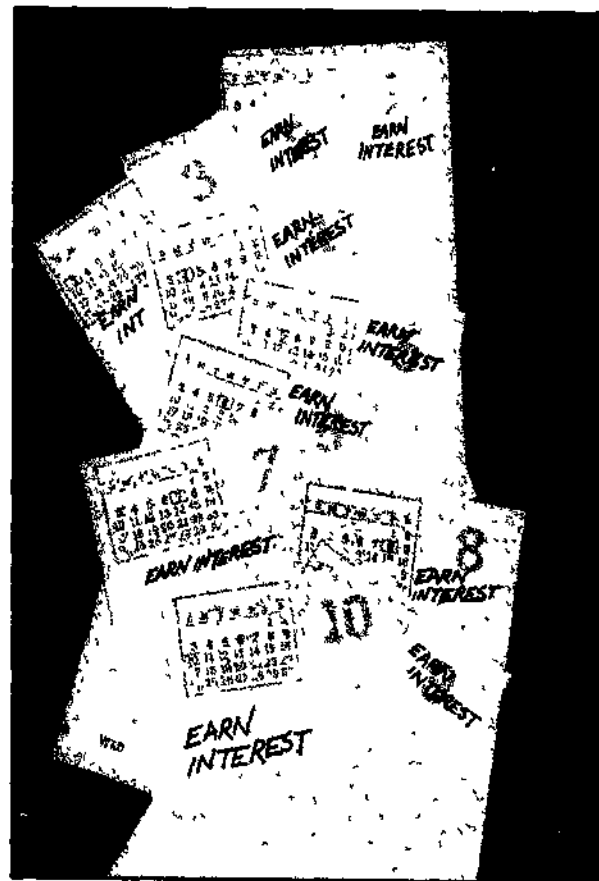

In testimony presented recently in Washington before the Financial Institutions Subcommittee of the House Banking Committee, the ABA representatives said inflation and the current system of specialized institutions for mortgage financing are the cause of U.S. housing problems.

Representatives of the association included J. Rex Duwe, president; W. Liddon McPeters, president-elect; John Perkins, government relations council chairman; and Charles Haywood, ABA consultant.

"Today, mortgage funds are available but housing remains in a slump," said Duwe. He said the costs of home ownership increased 96 per cent during the last 10 years. Only one family in six can afford a median-priced home, he said.

"Inflation has pushed the purchase price and maintenance costs of a home so high that most families simply aren't able to afford one," Duwe continued. "Even the promise of a $2,000 rebate has done little to encourage would-be home owners to buy a new house."

Pemberton joins Kunkel sales staff

Gerald P. Pemberton has joined Wm L. Kunkel & Co., Realtors Arlington Heights office as a sales associate.

Previously, Pemberton was employed as a sales representative for Portable Tool Sales and Service, and Singer-Friden, both in the Chicago area.

He is a 1971 graduate of Monmouth College where he obtained his BA degree and also attended the University of Illinois majoring in business.

Pemberton just recently passed the Illinois State Real Estate Exam and has been installed as a Realtor-Associate member of the Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors. He is also completing his first year at the Illinois Realtors Institute, sponsored by the Illinois Association of Realtors.

He resides in Hoffman Estates with his wife, Nancy, and one child.

Housing shows improvements

Construction of new housing units in the third quarter of this year showed only a slight decline from the year-ago level, it was reported recently by the F. W. Dodge Division of McGraw-Hill Information Systems Company.

According to the firm, an authority on the construction market widely known for its Dodge Reports on construction activity and Sweet's Catalog Files of building product information, new housing units were down four per cent, from the comparable 1974 quarter, totaling 303,264 during July, August and September. The amount, however, after adjustment for seasonal variation, was four per cent above the second quarter of this year.

One- and two-family housing, at 238,204 units for the latest period, was up eight per cent from a year ago, while apartment units, at 65,060, showed a 33 per cent decline.

Of the 10 metropolitan areas leading the nation in new dwelling units in the third quarter, four were in California and two were in Texas. Chicago, with 7,234 units, led the nation, followed by Los Angeles/Long Beach with 5,728 units, and Dallas with 5,400 units. The other top areas, in ranking order, were: Anaheim-Santa Ana-Garden Grove, 4,567 units; Detroit, 4,313 units; Washington, 4,280 units; Houston, 4,098 units; Seattle-Everett, Wash., 3,838 units; San Diego, 3,678 units; San Francisco, 3,510 units.

Bank makes special offer

Sterling silver SpoonRings are being offered at special prices when savings deposits are made in new or existing accounts at the First National Bank of Des Plaines.

When opening an account or making a minimum deposit in the amount of $250, customer price for a SpoonRing is only $5.50. A deposit of $1,000 brings the price down to $4.50, $2,500 to $3.50, on up to a $5,000 deposit, where the customer price for the SpoonRing is only $1.50.

MAP sales increase continues

The November sales report of MAP Multiple Listing Service indicates a continuing sales increase over the previous period in 1974. The MAP organization, one of mid-America's most prominent real estate cooperative sales and service multiples has reported steady sales increases in area real estate since early in 1975 and the substantial volume increases have continued throughout the year.

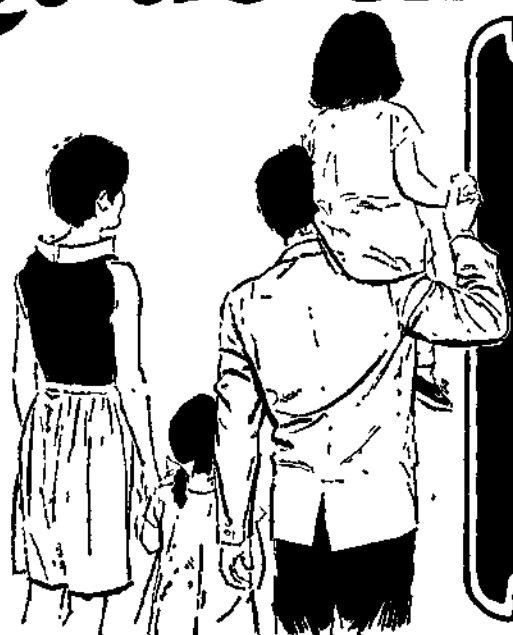

In November, MAP sales figures indicate a solid 40 per cent increase in sales volume over the previous November period in 1974 and a 35 per cent increase in actual number of homes and properties sold over the same period.

"Close relationship to buyers requirements and total knowledge of the current real estate mortgage situation has been a big factor in our continued sales success," says Stan Lieberman, president of the MAP organization which serves the northwest Chicago suburban market areas of Schaumburg, Streamwood, Hoffman Estates, Elk Grove, Palatine, Rolling Meadows, Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect, Des Plaines, Buffalo Grove and Wheeling. The organization is recognized as one of the country's most active, successful multiple sales groups with over 1,700 licensed sales people actively engaged in local and national referral real estate sales and service.

Walsh elected

The election of James C. Walsh as senior executive vice president of The May Department Stores Company was announced by David E. Babcock, chairman of the board, following a meeting of the Board of Directors. May, with corporate headquarters in St. Louis, is the second largest department store chain in the United States and operates three Venture discount stores in the Chicago area.

Walsh has been executive vice president-administration, planning and research of May since 1968. He joined the company in 1959 as secretary and assistant treasurer when The Hecht Co. department stores of Washington, D.C. and Baltimore were merged into May. Walsh was elected a vice president and treasurer of May and a member of the Board of Directors and Executive Committee in 1980 and vice president-administration and control in 1987.

Walsh was a vice president and treasurer of The Hecht Co. at the time of the merger with May. He was previously director of corporate development of Hecht, secretary and treasurer of Fieldcrest Mills, Inc. and assistant comptroller of Marshall Field & Company. Walsh is a native of Chicago and began his retailing career with Marshall Field.

Winners named

Winners of Des Plaines National Bank's ornament decorating contest received their awards from Dan Morava, executive vice president.

The winners were Debby Oiler, Jim Pabst and Tony Papucci, all of Des Plaines.

The prize-winning ornaments plus all others entered in the contest are currently being displayed on the bank's Christmas tree.

Zoe Simons receives plaque

Realtor Associate Zoe Simons of Glenbriar Realty in Prospect Heights has been honored with a plaque by her broker, Dan Seckelmann, for her record in sales and for the number of complimentary notices she has received from customers and clients.

Mrs. Simons was born in South Africa where her father was a minister. She spent several years in England and Canada, but completed high school and college in Pennsylvania. During World War II she married bomber pilot, David Simons, who is now a school principal and ordained minister. They had six children. Besides that, she taught elementary and high school classes in Pennsylvania.

Zoe Simons

In 1968 their eldest son, Richard was killed in Vietnam.

Leonardt named president

Harry J. Leonardt has been named president of Centex Homes of Illinois. Centex Homes has been a builder in the Chicago metropolitan area since 1956.

Leonardt joined Centex Homes of Illinois in August, 1976, as vice president. Prior to that he served as vice president for finance and planning with L & W Supply Corporation, a subsidiary of U.S. Gypsum. He was associated with L & W Supply Corporation from 1958 to 1975.

Leonardt has a degree in economics and has taken postgraduate work at the University of Southern California and Northwestern University. He and his family reside in Glenview.

Record set by Cadillac

Cadillac dealers in the first 10 days of December set an all-time record for the period as domestic deliveries of 9,088 new cars were reported today by F. T. Hopkins, general sales manager of Cadillac Motor Car Division.

"The 9,088 sales exceed the former December 1-10 record of 7,447 set in 1971 by 22 percent and are more than 39 percent greater than the same period a year ago when deliveries were 6,523," Hopkins said.

"Calendar year sales of new Cadillacs, January 1 through December 10, exceeded the quarter of a million mark in this period as 250,462 deliveries show a 19.2 percent increase over the same period a year ago when sales were 210,064 at this time," Hopkins reported.

He added, "The strong demand for new Cadillacs has required an all-out effort on the part of our manufacturing people to keep up with sales. During the week just passed, for example, there were 8,071 cars produced — the greatest week of production in the 73-year history of Cadillac Motor Car Division."

Most active member named

Baird & Warner, Inc., has been identified as the most active member in Inter-Community Relocation, Inc. (ICR), a national network of realtors organized to provide expanded service to sellers involved in job transfers.

Nine-month results for ICR, which is represented in more than 2,400 United States communities by over 8,600 sales associates, credits Baird & Warner with the largest total number of referrals for sellers moving to other communities and those relocating to the Chicago metropolitan area.

ICR reported that for the period through September, 1975, Baird & Warner referred 318 homebuyers to affiliates in other communities and received another 310 for a total of 628. The report showed that 89 of the out-bound transferees have already found new homes through the ICR network. Of 310 arriving homebuyers, 82 have found new homes through Baird & Warner's RESET program (Real Estate Service for Employee Transfers.)

Baird & Warner sets record

Increases in both dollar volume and unit production in November over the same month last year have brought Baird & Warner, Inc., to record levels in both categories.

The company reported 247 sales participations for the month, compared to 186 last November, to bring sales production for the year to 4,190 participations, breaking the annual record of 4,122 established in 1972.

November sales produced a dollar volume of $15,885,193, a sharp increase over last year's November volume of $10,808,852. This elevated dollar volume for the first 11 months of the year to $254,356,478 to topple the annual dollar record of $243,433,000 reached last year.

The 4,190 participations were 518 units higher than the 3,672 reported at the same time last year. The 11-month cumulative dollar volume of $254,356,478 overshadowed the $219,184,735 at the same time last year by $35,171,743.

U.S. Home reports profit

U.S. Home Corporation (NYSE) reported that net income for its third quarter ended November 30, 1975 was $1,525,000 or 15 cents per share on total revenues of $82,612,000. This compares with a net loss of $691,000 on total revenues of $66,044,000 in the same period last year. The announcement was made jointly by Charles Rutenberg, chairman, and Ben F. Harrison, president and chief executive officer.

For the nine months ended November 30, 1975, U.S. Home reported net income of $3,102,000 or 31 cents per share on total revenues of $225,791,000. These results compare with net income of $2,407,000 or 24 cents per share on revenues of $238,299,000 for the first three quarters of last year.

Commenting on the results, Harrison said that more than half of the profits for the quarter and approximately 60 per cent of the profits year-to-date have come from ongoing housing and related operations. The balance has come from the sale of certain assets, primarily small neighborhood or strip shopping centers in Florida. To date this fiscal year, U.S. Home has sold four such centers.

Extra heat for bathroom

If your bathroom is too chilly when you step out of your tub, you can solve the problem without installing anything. Fill your bath with hot water a half hour before you get into it; hot water gives off heat to the room gradually, so by the time you're ready to bathe, suggests the Better Heating-Cooling Council, the room is warm and the bathtub is comfortable.

If you have blowing warm air it can chill you when you step out of the tub because the water on your skin evaporates. You'd probably be more comfortable if you shut the damper on your air register before you get into the tub or shower.

Obtain sunlight in winter

Here it is winter and the short days and long nights remind us that plants depend upon light for growth. Without light there would be no photosynthesis, no production of food and no growth. Plant material is affected by the intensity, quality and duration of the light that reaches it says James E. Schuster, University of Illinois Extension Horticulturist in DuPage County.

The aim of a successful grower is to provide the kind of environment where maximum photosynthesis takes place. This is obviously more difficult to do during the winter when light intensity and duration are reduced. Anything you can do to get all the available sunlight in the winter is worth doing.

Some suggestions are to locate plants in the brightest location possible. It would also help if the windows these plants are located in are clean, letting in as much light as possible. Space plants that are in the window farther apart than usual to insure that there is adequate leaf surface exposed to the sun. The more light that strikes the leaf, the higher the leaf temperature, the more photosynthesis that takes place, hence more growth.

Provide reflective surfaces under the plants as well as behind them. Aluminum foil can be used here to bounce light back to the plants.

Change your growing practices to fit winter conditions. When there is less light, the demands of the plant are lessened and you should perhaps cut down on water, food and adjust the temperature.

Supplemental light can be used to advantage in getting additional growth during low light periods. Fluorescent lamps placed about 12 inches above the plants and turned on as the sun sets for five-seven hours will provide adequate lighting, says Schuster.

Restaurant opens

Cassano's Pizza-Seafood Restaurant in Buffalo Grove opened December 20 as announced by Howard J. Neff, Sr., president of Cassano Enterprises, Inc.

The Buffalo Grove restaurant, which is a franchise unit, is located in the Plaza Verde Shopping Center at the corner of Dundee and Arlington Heights roads. Manager of the store is Elaine Grossman, a resident of Arlington Heights and formerly of Chicago.

Course scheduled

A basic "how to" course in the appraisal of residential real estate will be offered in evening sessions in west suburban Hillside, according to Harold Carlson, President of the Illinois Chapter of the American Institute of Real Estate Appraisers. The course will begin Jan. 14 through March 13, every Wednesday from 6 p.m. until 10 p.m.

Co-sponsored by the Chicago Real Estate Board, the course deals exclusively with the appraisal of residential property. Class sessions will meet at the Holiday Inn of Hillside, near the Eisenhower expressway at Wolf Road.

Tuition for the course is $150, which includes all course material except the required text, "Single Family Residential Appraisal Manual" ($6.30), and the optional "Real Estate Appraisal Terminology" ($13.13). Proper registration forms are available from the Chicago Real Estate Board, 18 South Michigan Ave., Chicago, 60603. All checks should be made payable to the Chicago Real Estate Board.

The course is open to any person who has had a basic exposure to residential real estate through experience in sales, brokerage, financing or appraisal.

Fuel savers

More than 60 per cent of your heating fuel is used from January to May, states the Better Heating-Cooling Council so the energy conservation tips you've been reading about can still save you lots of money. If you have electric heat this is doubly important as you pay about twice as much for each Btu you use.

Look for this sign... it stands for satisfaction.

Citizens Bank offers RTA card

Citizens Bank of Park Ridge is acting as a distribution center for the new RTA transit discount card for senior citizens. This card enables persons sixty-five years of age and over

Course to begin

A new evening continuing education course for executives interested in real estate investing will be open to the public beginning in January at Northwestern University's Evanston campus.

Sponsored by the finance department of NU's Graduate School of Management, the course will be led by Ralph C. Musicant, vice president of Equity Financial and Management Co., Chicago. He will be assisted by other Chicago financial management executives. Musicant, a graduate of NU's College of Arts and Sciences with a B.S. degree, also holds a J.D. degree from the Harvard University Law School. He has been selected as the Martin C. Remer Visiting Distinguished Professor of Finance for the 1976 winter quarter at the Graduate School of Management.

The course, titled "Tax and Financial Aspects of Real Estate Investments," begins on Jan. 5 and continues through March 8 on 10 successive Monday evenings from 7 to 10 p.m. in the Owen L. Coon Forum, 2001 Sheridan Rd., on NU's Evanston campus. The course fee is $150. Enrollment inquiries should be directed to Nancy Hartigan, Executive Programs Office of the Graduate School of Management.

to ride Regional Transportation Authority vehicles at special reduced rates.

Prior to the issuance of RTA transit discount cards, Citizens acted as a distribution center for CTA transit discount cards. As part of its Dimension 60 program of 23 free services available to persons over sixty, Citizens Bank has furnished these members sixty-five years of age and over with a free photo for use on the CTA card. The bank will continue to provide this service free of charge to new and present Dimension 60 members, sixty-five and over, who would like the new RTA card.

Those persons who already have a CTA card are asked to bring it into Citizens Bank where this card will be converted to the new RTA discount pass at no cost.

Persons sixty-five and over without a CTA card, who are not members of Dimension 60, can either supply their own 1 1/2 inch x 1 1/2 inch photo for the new RTA card; or the bank will take one's photograph for a nominal charge.

For more information on the RTA transit discount card or the other services of Dimension 60, persons should call Judy Maiz, the bank's Dimension 60 Administrator, at 825-7000, extension 273.

Homefinders to sponsor course

The Homefinders Institute of Real Estate, approved by the State of Illinois as an educational institution for training real estate salesmen, will begin another course on "Real Estate Transactions" in Palatine on Jan. 7.

The 10-week course, specifically aimed at persons who wish to take the state's real estate examination, will be held at the Palatine office of Homefinders, 235 N. Northwest Highway.

New office opens in Des Plaines

Theodore M. Hoeller, Realtors, has opened another full service office at 1692 River Road in Des Plaines. The company has residential and investment divisions and also a state-accredited School of Real Estate.

The School of Real Estate provides instruction in both sales and real estate law required for the salesman's examination for the State of Illinois. New classes for the 30 hour salesman's course are scheduled to begin soon. Call 296-0990 for further information.

The residential division is headed by Victor Shumaker, broker.

Other offices are located in north-west Chicago, Mundelein and Downers Grove.

The classes will meet every Wednesday from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. Cost of the course is $100 plus $17 for the required textbooks.

"Real Estate Transactions" is a basic approach to the nature of real estate and ownership, the use of property titles, listing and sales contracts, mortgages, property descriptions and the Illinois brokers and salesmen law.

The Illinois State License Law requirements for salesmen are the following: successful completion of 30 hours of the "Real Estate Transactions" course; 21 years of age; U.S. citizenship; and high school graduate or equivalent. A person who is 18 years of age is acceptable, provided he or she has completed two years of a junior college course acceptable to the state.

Dr. M. Randall Rathjen is the director and Larry Ham the instructor of the Homefinders Institute of Real Estate.

A million dollar salesman as well as trainer of salesmen, Ham also serves as Training Director of Homefinders. He resides in Buffalo Grove and enjoys water sports as his main hobby.

Morning courses in real estate are also available at the Homefinders Institute of Real Estate.

Persons interested in enrolling or obtaining more information about the evening or day courses in "Real Estate Transactions" are invited to call Larry Ham at 358-8300.

For the woman
her family's finances.

You can't afford to be wrong. Because if you're in charge of the family budget, you're making decisions about the future. And that's where U.S. Savings Bonds come in. Buy them through your bank. Or encourage your husband to sign up for the Payroll Savings Plan where he works. That way, while you're meeting the day-to-day expenses, you'll still be building a more secure future for your family.

U.S. Savings Bonds. For the woman who really knows a good bargain.

Now U.S. Bonds pay 4 1/2% interest when held to maturity of 2 years (1986 for Series HH). Dividends are reported to you annually or quarterly. When needed, they can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

Take stock in America.
Join the Payroll Savings Plan.

U.S. Savings Bonds are sold by all banks, credit unions, and other financial institutions. For more information, call 1-800-551-8888.

One Month Free Rent!!

In this world of rising prices, with costs going up all the time, everyone needs to get the most for his money. At Schaumburg Green, we offer you suburban living at its finest, yet at prices you can afford to pay.

And, you get one month's free rent.

How can we offer you such a saving?

First, our financing was arranged more than three years ago when interest rates were low. (Would you believe 8 1/2%?)

Second, our construction contracts were let 20 months ago when prices were 20% less than today.

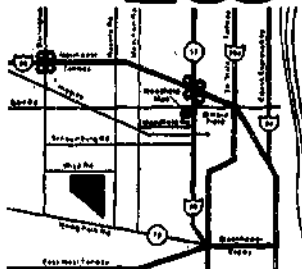

There is a teen club organized by the residents. These young people provide baby-sitting services, as well as organizing a swimming team, baseball team and ballet classes.

SCHAUMBURG GREEN is offering you an additional (all) special. One year free membership in the

Staffer tops million mark

Mary Lou Mitchell of Quinlan and Tyson's Palatine area office has sold $1 million of real estate this year.

She topped the million level in November after selling $400,000 in October, it was announced by Beverly Ann Berry, office sales manager.

Mrs. Mitchell is active in the Arlington Heights hockey program. She also is a volunteer at South Junior High School and is a member of the American Association of University Women. Mrs. Mitchell is a graduate of Seton Hill College.

Mrs. Mitchell and her husband, Joseph, live in Arlington Heights. They have five children.

1975 review

Knight-Card game, Falcon runner top stories

Paul Logan
Associate Sports Editor

As Sinatra's song goes, "It was a very good year."

The 1975 sports season in the Herald area had a state team champion, several individual champs, plenty of record breakers and some very special events. Unfortunately, it wasn't a super year.

When compared to 1974's outstanding happenings, 1975 came up a bit short. However, taking a basketball team to the state tournament has only happened once. A national record and All-America honors are also very rare.

Winning the Super Bowl (the Mid-Suburban League title game) is a thing of the past, too, because of the state playoffs. Take away the above and the 1974 season would compare very favorably with 1975.

In '75, streaks were extended as well as broken. The record books were rewritten. There were successes in every sport.

Because of this growth and improvement in area athletics, it again was a difficult chore for the sports department to rate the top stories.

For the first time in reviewing the year, two categories were made — top individual stories and top team or event stories.

What follows is the result of this staff's voting. Presenting the top 10 stories in each category as well as the "just misses."

'Battle of Unbeatens'

No. 1 — Few regular season basketball games have ever had the widespread fan appeal as the showdown between the Arlington Cardinals and the hosting Prospect Knights for the Mid-Suburban League title. Both teams came into the game with perfect 13-0 records. The lucky 3,200 fans who had tickets (hundreds were turned away) saw two superb teams battle right to the end. Coach Bill Stalton's Prospect team was led by Mike Quade's 20 points and Al Black's 18. Dave Mann's crucial three-point play with 46 seconds left sealed the victory, 78-73.

Barrington's coming

No. 2 — Barrington High School, long a power in the North Suburban League, asked to join the Mid-Sub-ban League in 1977. The Inter-Suburban Association okayed the move. Later this month, the MSL principals are expected to also vote in favor of Barrington, thus expanding the MSL to 14 schools.

All-Stars to nationals

No. 3 — The Irving-Lake All-Stars earned a berth in the Senior Babe Ruth League National Tournament by first winning the state title and then the regional title. Lou Bocci's team lost out in the double elimination finals, but it was only the second area team to ever reach the national in hardball.

Hersey wins grid playoff

No. 4 — Hersey's football team won its opening round of the state playoffs against St. Viator. Then Coach Joe Gliwa's Huskies dropped a thriller to Loyola. The Huskies had their first perfect season and racked up their fifth straight MSL North Division title. One of their big wins en route to the playoffs was a dramatic two overtime win over Buffalo Grove.

Arlington regains cup

No. 5 — Arlington regained its distinction of having the MSL's most successful over-all boys' sports program by winning the Paddock Cup. The Cardinals' success ended Hersey's three-year dominance of the award.

Boys beat Falcon girls

No. 6 — The Forest View girls' bowling team looked like a good bet to successfully defend its state title. However, a team dominated by boys from Dixon topped the Falcon girls of Coach Diann Tomaino in the finals.

Saxons defend crown

No. 7 — Schaumburg's football team repeated as the MSL South Division champion with a perfect season. Coach Bob Ferguson's powerful team lost a heartbreaker to Glenbard West in the state playoffs.

Huskies 3rd in gym

No. 8 — Hersey finished third in the state gymnastic finals. Coach Don Von Ebers' Huskies also won their third straight MSL championship.

Hersey takes 5th trophy

No. 9 — Hersey captured its fifth straight MSL wrestling title. Coach Rick Mann's team was upset along

JAM SESSION. One of the largest crowds in area basketball history — 3,200 — watch Prospect capture an exciting Mid-Suburban League championship game against visiting Arlington. Both teams came into the game with perfect MSL records as the Knights de-

the way by Arlington, ending its five-year MSL dual meet streak at 39.

Cards swim to 3rd title

No. 10 — Arlington's swim team won its third straight MSL championship. Coach Don Andersen guided the Cardinals to all three crowns.

Top stars

Falcon wins state 880

No. 1 — Steve Schellenberger, Forest View's star runner, provided the most surprising athletic achievement of the year by winning the 880-yard run at the state finals. Schellenberger shocked the field by coming from behind to nip Homewood-Flossmoor's Ken Staggs with the run of his life — 1:51.9. It proved to be the area's only track title. Schellenberger also had the distinction of winning three events in the MSL championships.

Quade voted top athlete

No. 2 — Mike Quade, one of the most versatile athletes ever at Prospect, earned Herald area Athlete of the Year honors for his superb play in basketball, baseball and football.

Freeman notches 500th

No. 3 — Gaston Freeman, Maine West's veteran basketball coach, joined very select company when his Warrior team won for him victory No. 500 by beating Glenbrook North.

Gross only mat champ

No. 4 — John Gross, Forest View's outstanding little wrestler, became the only area athlete to win at the state meet. Gross captured the 105 pound title.

Popp all-time leader

No. 5 — Jim Popp, Palatine's star running back, smashed some fine single season records, became the all-time area single season ground gainer with 1214 yards. Popp also set a new mark in the MSL with 1109.

Rebsamen earns 5th title

No. 6 — Trudi Rebsamen, Prospect's annual state track champion, did it again by winning the 440-yard dash in record time — 56.2. It was her fifth state title.

Oehlsen lone gym winner

No. 7 — Keith Oehlsen, Hersey's outstanding gymnast, earned a share of the state free exercise title with a 9.05. He was the area's only champion.

Zonca ranks No. 1

No. 8 — Russ Zonca, Schaumburg's super quarterback, became the area's all-time career total offense leader with his two-year total of 2159 yards. He led his Saxon team to two straight divisional titles.

Card has perfect game

No. 9 — Der Townsend, Arlington's hard-throwing pitcher, threw a perfect game in the Hersey District Tour-namment. The big Cardinal hurler retired 18 straight Huskies en route to a 13-0 victory.

Saxon has super vault

No. 10 — Bruce Mahlig, Schaumburg's fine pole vaulter, cleared 15 feet, 6½ inches — the second best effort ever in Illinois. Mahlig's exceptional vault came in the Palatine Relays.

No. 12 — Conant's Mary Ann Johnson takes second straight state shot put title with record toss.

No. 13 — Palatine's Nicky Zambale wins state junior golf championship.

No. 14 — Rolling Meadows' Ken Arneson retires after 21 years as a varsity coach.

No. 15 — Maine East's Melody Miller wins state two-mile run in record time.

No. 16 — Prospect's George Savage pitches MSL's first perfect game.

No. 17 — Prospect's George Gattas named Illinois high school athletic director of the year.

No. 18 — Palatine's Scott Guy captures National Outdoor Junior speed skating title.

No. 19 — Fred Hansen bowls an 815 series in the Paddock Classic League.

No. 20 — Schaumburg's Tom Jaconsen wins Chicago Amateur Golf Championship.

No. 11 — Arlington boys' tennis team hikes MSL dual meet record to 91-0, wins 10th straight MSL title as well as district championship.

No. 12 — Rolling Meadows baseball team wins school's first boys' team title.

No. 13 — Harper women's tennis team takes state championship.

No. 14 — Fremd girls' basketball team ups record to 25-0 while winning second straight MSL championship.

Bowl day! Take your pick of three games

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — Bidding for their first national championship in seven seasons, Ohio State's top-ranked and powerful Buckeyes are 14-point favorites to defeat UCLA in the Rose Bowl today in Archie Griffin's final game as a collegian.

Griffin, the unprecedented double Heisman Trophy winner, and his teammates crushed the Bruins 41-20 on Oct. 4 at Los Angeles and they're expected to win handily again to give Woody Hayes his third national title in his 26 years at Columbus. Hayes' teams captured national crowns in 1956 and 1957.

A crowd of more than 100,000 is expected to see Ohio State, the Big Ten champion and 11-4, go against the Pacific-8 co-champion Bruins, 9-2-1.

Led by Griffin and Big Ten MVP Cornelius Greene, the Buckeyes are appearing here for the fourth straight season while UCLA is in the Rose Bowl for the first time in 10 years.

"As far as I'm concerned, we have never played this team before," said Griffin. "Our goal all year long has been the national championship and we aren't about to let up now that we're this close."

"We aren't taking these guys lightly," added wingback Brian Baschnagel, another four-year varsity Buckeye performer. "What happened the last time we played them is history. It's what happens now that's important."

Hayes, 62, has made it clear he's not thinking of retirement. "I know when it'll be time for me to retire," he said. "It'll come when I find I'm not capable of doing a good job."

On paper, Ohio State figures to be the much better team. The Buckeyes led the nation in points scored — 374 — and ranked second in fewest points allowed — 79. Griffin rushed for 1,357 yards, fullback Pete Johnson scored 25 touchdowns; Greene completed 59.2 per cent of his passes, Craig Cassidy intercepted eight passes and Tom Skladany averaged 46.7 yards a punt.

The Buckeyes had a two all-American — Griffin and safety-man Tim Fox, a three-year starter. The Bruins didn't have any.

UCLA's polished Veer, directed by quarterback John Sciarra, rolled up 326 points this season but the Bruins' defense gave up 233 points.

Despite playing with a cracked left wrist from UCLA's fifth game on, Wendell Tyler set a school single-season rushing record of 1,216 yards. Sciarra accounted for 1,907 total yards and 14 touchdowns in his senior year.

Although Griffin has 5,466 career rushing yards, second-year Bruin Coach Dick Vermell said UCLA's main concern when it's on defense will be Greene, who passed for 976 yards and ran for 613 more.

"Everything starts with Greene," said Vermell. "He's the guy who gets things done. He comes up with the big plays. He can take a play about to break down and turn it into a big gainer."

a 31-1-1 record. The second-ranked Sooners (10-1), coming off a two-year NCAA probation for recruiting violations, have not played in a post-season game since Dec. 31, 1972, when they appeared in the Sugar Bowl.

"Our team has suffered some frustrations," Switzer said. "We had a great squad in 1973 and again in 1974, but no one was able to see us. This year, our great seniors will finally have a chance to show what they can do."

Michigan Coach Bo Schembechler has some frustrations of his own. The fourth-rated Wolverines (9-1-2) have not played in a post-season classic since the 1972 Rose Bowl despite a record of 30-2-1 in the 1972-1974 seasons.

"Our team this year represents three years of frustration," Schembechler said. "We're happy the Big 10 has dropped its antiquated rule and that this team has the opportunity to be the first Big 10 team to play in another bowl besides the Rose Bowl."

The two coaches said they both believed the Orange Bowl was the best matchup of the New Year's Day menu.

"I think we have the two best teams in the country the past three seasons right here," Switzer said. "In Joe Washington and Gordon Bell you'll be seeing the two finest backs in the country on the same field."

Washington, who rushed for 1,321 yards in 1974, led the Big Eight co-champion Sooners in rushing in 1973 with 871 yards while Bell paced the Wolverines on the ground with 1,335 yards.

Both coaches traded quips about the matchup at quarterback, where Oklahoma's Steve Davis, a three-year starter and a licensed Baptist preacher, will face Michigan freshman Rick Leach.

"Davis gives us a chance with the connections he has," said Switzer, who, in a more serious vein, added,

"He's been a tremendous leader on and off the field."

"Leach not only gives up three years to Oklahoma's quarterback but also doesn't have the divine right athlete Coach Switzer talked about," said the usually stoic Schembechler.

Switzer said his good-sized defense was physical and strong, "but we (Continued on next page)

MIAMI (UPI) — The opposing coaches in Thursday night's Orange Bowl contest between Oklahoma and Michigan concede it is a pleasure to finally play in a bowl game after going the past few years without a post-season reward.

For Coach Barry Switzer, it will be the first bowl game of his three-year career at Oklahoma, where he boasts

No surprise; O. J. the best

O. J. Simpson, who set a single season touchdown record and, in the process, rolled up the third highest rushing figure in National Football League history, Wednesday was named United Press International's 1975 American Conference Player of the Year.

The Buffalo Bills' superstar running back led the NFL in rushing for the second time in the last three years and scored 23 touchdowns this season, breaking the record of 22 set by Chicago's Gale Sayers in 1965.

Simpson, who was a unanimous selection to the AFC All Star team last week, easily won the AFC Player Award for the third time in the last four years, being named on 26 of the 39 ballots cast by UPI's panel of pro football writers, three from each conference city.

Only three other players received votes. Pittsburgh quarterback Terry Bradshaw was second with six votes, Cincinnati quarterback Ken Anderson received five and Baltimore running back Lydell Mitchell two.

Coach forced to resign

Southern Methodist University head football coach Dave Smith, whose three-year tenure was marked by one NCAA probation and the impending threat of another, was forced to resign Wednesday.

The resignation was announced by school president Dr. James Zumberge, who made the disclosure in a statement that failed to mention any of Smith's many troubles while at the school.

"The mutual decision is based on an agreement in which SMU will honor its present contractual agreement with coach Smith which runs through 1977," Zumberge said.

In three years Smith's teams compiled a 16-15-2 record, but slumped to a 4-7 mark in 1975.

During his first year at the school, the Mustang football team was struck by a scandal involving cash payments from the coaching staff to members of the specialty team for big plays. That led to a two-year probation from the NCAA and the removal of Smith as athletic director.

Dismissed player eligible

A federal judge, offering to share the risk of a future eye injury, has directed Ohio University to temporarily reinstate to its junior varsity basketball team a player dismissed because he has the sight of only one eye.

Judge Robert M. Duncan of U.S. District Court issued his order pending a hearing on the merits of the case involving Michael Borden, a 6-6 1/2 freshman center.

The American Civil Liberties Union of Ohio, which initiated the court action in Borden's behalf, hailed the judge's directive.

An elated Borden said he hopes to work his way into the starting lineup but will have to beat out his twin brother, who replaced him at center when he was declared ineligible by the university after a post-tryout physical examination.

William Rohr, OU athletic director, said Borden would be reinstated to the team immediately. "We're under court order," he said.

LL goes 'world' again

Foreign teams, excluded last season from the annual Little League title competition, will be invited to participate in the 1976 championships.

After Taiwan won the Little League World Series in 1974 for the fifth time in six years, the league made a controversial decision to exclude all foreign teams from competing for the first time since 1946.

Last season, the championships were renamed the Little League Championship Series, and limited to the four regional U.S. winners.

Little League Executive Director Peter J. McGovern said the Board of Directors voted 12-1 to rescind that decision and make the 1976 competition the Little League World Series once again. "The only stipulation," McGovern said, "is that all teams follow the regulations of Little League baseball."

"The Board has stated that its primary concern is what is best for the boys."

don't have the quickness of Michigan."

But Schembechler, who said the strength of his team was defense, said he was worried about the Sooners' size. "You may have trouble seeing our guys with the size they have," he said.

Both coaches said they have enjoyed their stay in Miami while preparing for the game, and Switzer joked that the Sooners may be having too good a time.

"We've enjoyed ourselves so much that, if we're fortunate enough to win the Big Eight title again, we may not get invited back," the Sooner coach said.

Cotton Bowl

DALLAS — As far as Midwesterners are concerned, today's Cotton Bowl game is the "preliminary" to the "varsity" contests — the Rose and Orange bowls.

Some New Year's Eve carousers may still be asleep when the Arkansas-Georgia game comes on the tube at 1 p.m. According to some experts, these late dozers may miss one of the most entertaining games in the long bowl parade.

The Cotton Classic's 40th annual game will feature an Arkansas Razorback team that wasn't supposed to still be playing in 1976. Coach Frank Broyles' team shocked heavily favored Texas A&M, 31-6, to earn a share of the Southwest Conference crown.

The George Bulldogs of Coach Vince Dooley finished in a three-way tie for second place in the Alabama-dominated Southeastern Conference. But because of a strong finish as well as win over highly ranked SEC foe Florida, the Bulldogs attracted the attention of the Cotton Bowl committee.

Both teams will take 9-2 records into the action. They also run similar over offenses with some passing.

"I feel like Arkansas has a better team than A&M because they were a more complete team," said Dooley. "Arkansas has better balance. A&M had the superior defense and that's where they got their reputation."

"But Arkansas' defense is not too far off. And there's no question that Arkansas' offense is much superior and they have a much, much better kicking game."

Broyles isn't saying much about the opposition. The cagy veteran coach is only talking about his good old boys:

"Scott Bull is as fine a competitor as ever wore the Razorback uniform. (Bull, a 6-foot-5, 202-pound senior became a regular in the third game of the season and has improved each game at quarterback). Everything began to jell for us in November as Scott began picking up the things that make our play-action passing go. With that came confidence and performance and he has become truly an outstanding quarterback."

"Our defense made more improvement from start to finish than any other defense we've had."

The Razorback are making their appearance since 1965 in the Dallas hosted game. Since the Cotton Bowl committee has a rule which says that in the event of a tie, the team that has gone the longest without an invitation shall receive the bid, they got the nod over the other co-champs. A&M made the trip in 1967 and Texas last came in 1973.

THE ULTIMATE football fan just may be Cecil (Big Red) Samara, showing off his bullhorn in Miami as he indicates where he thinks the Oklahoma Sooners should be ranked. Samara, whose teeth are inlaid with letters spelling "Big Red," drove his red 1923 Model T to Florida for the Orange Bowl meeting between Oklahoma and Michigan.

Knights gain consolation finals; Arlington falters

Arlington got off to a slow start in the semi-finals of the consolation bracket at Centralia Wednesday, finally caught Mount Vernon in the fourth quarter, but ran out of gas, and was eliminated, 79-73.

The afternoon games at Centralia and Edwardsville Wednesday were completed after the sports deadline. Details of these games will be in Friday's Herald.

Mount Vernon jumped in front, 10-2, before Arlington adjusted to the fast-paced tempo. The Cards of coach Don Drain cut the margin to four at half-time and tied the game in the third period by applying full-court pressure.

With the score deadlocked for the final time at 69 with two minutes remaining in the fourth quarter, Mount Vernon's Dave King cashed a fast-break layup that put the downstate school ahead to stay.

Frank DeSimone paced Arlington with 17 points, but a well-balanced attack also featured 12 by Greg Jantsch, nine by Tom North and Dave Kamps and eight each by Dan Frase and Jim Zobel.

SCORE BY QUARTERS

Mt. Vernon	20	22	13	24-79

KNIGHTS SURVIVE IN OT

Brad Krause, Tim Kubicki, Bruce Brothers and Mike Wood all scored in overtime Wednesday to keep Prospect alive in the consolation bracket of the Centralia Holiday Tournament with a 74-70 triumph over Belleville Althoff.

The Knights, who settled for a 65-65 standoff after regulation play had ended, outscored Althoff, 9-5, to advance into the consolation championship game last night.

Kubicki paced the Knights with 19 points on 7-for-12 shooting from the floor and four rebounds before fouling out in the extra session. Chris Etter speared 11 rebounds and pumped in 18 points on 9-for-19 accuracy from the field.

Mike Wood contributed 14 points, Brad Krause nine, Ed Spore six, Brothers five and Scott Miller two as Prospect continues its winning ways after dropping a tournament-opening loss to Champaign Central.

Finesse not in the cards

"I guess I should have resolved to hold my hand further back," growled West.

"I didn't see any of your cards," said South. "It just happens that my New Year's resolution was not to take any finesse for the sheer joy of finesse."

South had drawn trumps, led the jack of clubs from dummy and hopped up with his ace. That dropped West's singleton king and gave South a chance to discard two spades on dummy's long clubs and make his contract with an overtrick. South's play had been eminently correct. He could afford to lose a club trick to East because East could not lead a spade through dummy's king. He could not afford to lose to West because that might give the defense one club and two spades.

Win at bridge

If West held the guarded king of clubs there was nothing South could do. But if West held the singleton king, South could pick it up which was just what he did.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Parents beware of kids' vows

by MARILYN McDONALD

First graders in the Northwest suburbs have made New Year's resolutions for 1976, and many parents better beware.

David Robinson and Barbara Fogel, two of the first graders in the area who told The Herald their resolutions for this year, vowed to help their parents stop smoking.

David already has started his campaign. "I just make signs everywhere he goes — in our new station wagon, in his closet, under his pillow, on the night stand. He said he wouldn't stop smoking until I made enough signs," David says.

"I'll try to be more gentle with my kitten." — Laura Hanson.

"IT'S NOT GOOD for something inside you," Barbara said, "and you could die from it."

For Jeff Bostic, 1976 is the year he begins his drive to make the basketball team when he gets to high school in seven years.

Jeff says he is going to spend the Bicentennial year honing his roundball skills "because I can't catch a basketball."

And Kelly Kolar also plans to mix good health with fun by improving her rope-jumping skills.

Kelly recently jumped rope for the first time and plans to continue "because it's good exercise for your knees."

SOME RESOLUTIONS show wisdom beyond 6 years of age. Eric Bernhardt resolved not to lie during the year. "You shouldn't really lie. People might know that you lied," he says.

And Kathy Christy has vowed to help keep her house clean "because no one ever does it." David Roberts' parents also are in for a surprise because he has vowed to "help do the dishes" during the new year.

If some area first graders keep their resolutions, parents should see a meteoric rise in grades this year.

MANY NORTHWEST suburban parents should be relieved to know their first-grade children plan to minimize fighting with their brothers and sisters in 1976.

Sheila Keenan says, "I'm going to promise myself that I won't fight with my brother Timmy." Sheila says she and her younger brother Timmy often fight over toys. But Sheila is concerned that the two of them might set a bad example for their 2-year-old brother. "My other little brother might start fighting, and we'll never be right without fighting," she says.

Michael Van Deven figures that getting along better with his older brother will show his parents that he loves them. Another way to fulfill his resolution to love his parents more is "by not waking up grumpy in the morning."

Laura Hanson has plans to be better to another member of her family. She is going to be more "gentle with the kitten" in the household.

Then there is Leanne Rothacher who has more lofty ideals for the new year. She wants to "make an angel" of herself and make everyone happy.

CLAUDIA KIEFFER says "loving God better" is her resolution for 1976. She says she can reach her goal by "thinking about Him more, praying, studying Bible stories and singing songs about God."

Michael Radzine has made perhaps the most meaningful resolution of all. "I promised my mother I'd give my sister a bath," he says, explaining that his mother is making a slow recovery from an automobile accident and has trouble caring for him and his 4-year-old sister Beth.

But then some first-graders just want to wish away 1976 until it's Christmas again. Junior woodsman Lance Burgdorf has resolved to "cut Christmas trees better" next year.

"I'm trying to get my dad to stop smoking." — David Robinson.

Reinstate workers, city urged by union

A union representing eight suspended Des Plaines Public Works Dept. employees has urged the city to rescind the suspensions and grant full back pay to the workers.

John Burpo, attorney for the local chapter of the Assn. of Independent Municipal Employees, said Wednesday the request was made in a grievance filed earlier this week with Mayor Herbert H. Behrel. The eight workers were suspended last week for refusing to work on garbage trucks.

The grievance has been filed, Burpo said, because union officials believe the city has violated its contract with the public works union. He would not, however, elaborate further on the contents of the four-page grievance.

BEHREL ALSO has refused to disclose the contents, except to say he would not grant the union's request to air the grievance before the city council. He said the request does not conform to proper procedure, and that the grievance instead will be turned over to City Atty. Charles Hug for further consideration.

Burpo said at this time he does not believe it is necessary for the city council to hear the grievance. "At this point we're following the grievance very closely," he said. "So long as the grievance is resolved satisfactorily I wouldn't see any reason to bring it to the attention of the council."

Joseph Schwab, commissioner of public works, suspended the employees for five working days without pay Dec. 28 after they refused to work on garbage trucks for absent sanitation workers.

Among the suspended employees is Robert Olson, second vice president of the public works employees' union. The other suspended employees are Raymond Pozdol, William O'Connell, James Jensen, Richard Kwayzer, Richard Weigus, Arthur Kozlinka and Thomas Strissel.

MOST OF THE suspended employees work in the street department, but Schwab said the union contract states that workers can be required to work in the areas where they are most needed.

Alan Rateike, president of the public works union, said the city should have asked for volunteers to work on the garbage trucks as has been done in the past.

Schwab said he considered seeking the dismissal of the employees, but that officials decided suspensions are sufficient punishment.

Behrel said this week he backs Schwab and that further refusals by employees to obey orders will be dealt with in a similar manner.

"If the employees continue to do things like this they'll continue to be suspended," he said. "There's no two ways about it."

"I'm a firm believer that whether we have a union or not we run the city, and by golly if the employees don't like it then they can quit," Behrel said. "They're well paid for what they do, and we've got to have the right to dispatch our men on any given day to any given job where they are needed."

2nd increase slated for July

U.S. orders hike in natural gas prices

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Power Commission Wednesday ordered an immediate nationwide boost in natural gas prices, to be followed by another increase in July. The increases will cost consumers about $300 million extra in 1976.

In its unanimous opinion, the FPC said the price increase was necessary to ease natural gas shortages, to protect the industry's ability to meet demand, and help the nation's economy. "Our responsibilities under the Natural Gas Act require us to take appropriate steps to minimize the adverse impact of gas shortages on the economy," the FPC said.

"IN OUR judgment the benefit to the national economy from amelioration of the gas shortage will more than compensate for the increased cost to consumers of the gas covered by this opinion."

A Northern Illinois Gas Co. spokesman said Wednesday:

"We have no way of knowing how this will affect us."

Pipeline suppliers including the Natural Gas Pipeline Co. of America, Chicago, will pass along any cost increases to the utility.

Under the opinion, the ceiling price producers may charge pipeline operators for natural gas from wells operating prior to Jan. 1, 1973 will rise to 23½ cents per thousand cubic feet on

New Year's Day.

It will go to 29½ cents on July 1 to reflect repeal of the percentage depletion allowance for oil and natural gas that becomes effective on that date.

The new rates will be effective nationwide, ending the current system of rate-setting by geographic area. The average cost of natural gas under this system in 1975 was 22.9 cents per thousand cubic feet.

THE FPC estimated — assuming no change in 1973 gas volumes — an added cost of $300.55 million in 1976. An FPC spokesman said such cost increases traditionally have been passed through to consumers.

The action affects only gas shipped in interstate commerce and not that shipped within a single state. Those rates, not federally regulated, have tended to be slightly higher.

Under the new order, the minimum natural gas price will be set at 18 cents per thousand cubic feet.

The opinion does not affect the price of natural gas from wells operating since Jan. 1, 1973 — for which the FPC in 1974 set a single nationwide ceiling of 51 cents per thousand cubic feet. Under that decision, the ceiling automatically rises today to 52 cents.

For both "old" and "new" gas now covered by nationwide rates, the complex formulas were devised to give producers a 15 per cent rate of return.

Joining in lengthy opinion ending the 2½ year old case were FPC Chairman Richard L. Dunham and Commissioners Don S. Smith, John H. Holoman III and James G. Watt; there is one vacancy.

"The commission said it had determined on the basis of the evidence that the price adjustment for old gas is necessary to protect the industry's ability to serve the interstate market," said an accompanying statement.

Parents beware of kids' vows

by MARILYN McDONALD

First graders in the Northwest suburbs have made New Year's resolutions for 1976, and many parents better beware.

David Robinson and Barbara Fogel, two of the first graders in the area who told The Herald their resolutions for this year, vowed to help their parents stop smoking.

David already has started his campaign. "I just make signs everywhere he goes — in our new station wagon, in his closet, under

"IT'S NOT GOOD for something inside you," Barbara said, "and you could die from it."

For Jeff Bostic, 1976 is the year he begins his drive to make the basketball team when he gets to high school in seven years.

Jeff says he is going to spend the Bicentennial year honing his roundball skills "because I can't catch a basketball."

And Kelly Kolar also plans to mix good health with fun by improving her rope-jumping skills.

Kelly recently jumped rope for the first time and plans to continue "because it's good exercise for your knees."

SOME RESOLUTIONS show wisdom beyond 6 years of age. Eric Bernhardt resolved not to lie during the year. "You shouldn't really lie. People might know that you lied," he says.

And Kathy Christy has vowed to help keep her house clean "because no one ever does it." David Roberts' parents also are in for a surprise because he has vowed to "help do the dishes" during the new year.

If some area first graders keep their resolutions, parents should see a meteoric rise in grades this year.

MANY NORTHWEST suburban parents should be relieved to know their first-grade children plan to minimize fighting with their brothers and sisters in 1976.

Sheila Keenan says, "I'm going to promise myself that I won't fight with my brother Timmy." Sheila says she and her younger brother Timmy often fight over toys. But Sheila is concerned that the two of them might set a bad example for their 2-year-old brother. "My other little brother might start fighting, and we'll never be right without fighting," she says.

Michael Van Deven figures that getting along better with his older brother will show his parents that he loves them. Another way to fulfill his resolution to love his parents more is "by not waking up grumpy in the morning."

Laura Hanson has plans to be better to another member of her family. She is going to be more "gentle with the kitten" in the household.

Break ground next month for town hall

by JOE SWICKARD

The new Wheeling Town Hall is expected to open for business next fall, said Ethel Kolerus, township supervisor.

Groundbreaking for the new two-story colonial style building at 1620 North Arlington Heights Road is scheduled for February. Construction of the $650,000 building will take six to seven months to complete.

The building, to be paid for through federal revenue-sharing funds and from the $140,000 proceeds of the sale of the present town hall at 1818 E. Northwest Hwy., will house offices for Shelter Inc., Omni-House, Youth Services Bureau, the Salvation Army and the Northwest Mental Health Center as well as township functions.

MRS. KOLERUS said the building's interior design was recently approved by the agencies to be housed there.

The first floor of the building will house the township assistance and assessor's offices, senior citizens' services and a general purpose room.

The second floor will have areas for the mental health agency, Shelter Inc. and the Salvation Army.

The basement will house mechanical operations for the building and offices for Omni-House youth services.

The rear entrance of the building will have a sloping ramp to serve as a truck service entry and an entry-way for the handicapped. Mrs. Kolerus said the ramp's incline will be gentle enough to accommodate wheelchairs and those using crutches or canes. The area will be landscaped and screened by greenery.

MRS. KOLERUS said the bid specifications are being prepared for the building. The site acquisition cost was $91,000.

A kitchen has been planned for the first floor area used by the senior citizens center. She said the kitchen will be used for nutritional classes.

"We have found this is really needed because so many people find it difficult to cook for one. They often don't want to take the trouble to prepare a meal for themselves alone and try to get by on coffee and sweetrolls or cheese and rye bread," she said.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Power Commission Wednesday ordered an immediate nationwide boost in natural gas prices, to be followed by another increase in July. The increases will cost consumers about $360 million extra in 1976.

In its unanimous opinion, the FPC said the price increase was necessary to ease natural gas shortages, to protect the industry's ability to meet demand, and help the nation's economy.

"Our responsibilities under the Natural Gas Act require us to take appropriate steps to minimize the adverse impact of gas shortages on the economy," the FPC said.

"IN OUR judgment the benefit to the national economy from amelioration of the gas shortage will more than compensate for the increased cost to consumers of the gas covered by this opinion."

A Northern Illinois Gas Co. spokesman said Wednesday:

"We have no way of knowing how this will affect us."

Pipeline suppliers including the Natural Gas Pipeline Co. of America, Chicago, will pass along any cost increases to the utility.

Under the opinion, the ceiling price producers may charge pipeline operators for natural gas from wells operating prior to Jan. 1, 1973 will rise to 23½ cents per thousand cubic feet on

New Year's Day.

It will go to 29½ cents on July 1 to reflect repeal of the percentage depletion allowance for oil and natural gas that becomes effective on that date.

Michael Radzine has made perhaps the most meaningful resolution of all. "I promised my mother I'd give my sister a bath," he says, explaining that his mother is making a slow recovery from an automobile accident and has trouble caring for him and his 4-year-old sister Beth.

But then some first-graders just want to wish away 1976 until it's Christmas again. Junior woodsman Lance Burgdorf has resolved to "cut Christmas trees better" next year.

Judge OKs Hulett's trip to Saudi Arabia

Circuit Court Judge Nicholas J. Bua Wednesday refused to issue an injunction that would have stopped Allen W. Hulett, former Elk Grove Village fire chief, from leaving the country as planned today.

The injunction was sought in court by Robert E. Gordon, an attorney representing Gary Pettee in his two $6 million lawsuits against Hulett in connection with the January 1974 deaths of Pettee's wife, Jean, and her unborn child.

Bua said, however, that Hulett's initial discovery deposition would be allowed as evidence in the Pettee-Hulett court case should Hulett not be present for the trial, Gordon said.

GORDON SAID he was satisfied with the judge's decision because discovery depositions are usually not allowed as evidence in court cases.

Gordon was seeking the injunction so that Hulett could give a legal deposition or statement concerning the case, prior to leaving the country for his new job in Jeddah, Saudi Arabia.

Hulett has resigned as Elk Grove Village fire chief, effective today, and will leave today for briefings in Montreal, Canada. By Sunday he will be in Saudi Arabia, where he will head the country's new fire rescue service, with his primary responsibility the country's 20 airports. The job is sponsored by the United Nations through the International Civil Aviation Organization.

The Pettee family in January 1974 had called for an ambulance to treat Mrs. Pettee, but Hulett ordered the ambulance recalled under a village policy. The policy, since changed, said ambulance service would only be provided in unincorporated areas in cases for which a family had contracted for the service.

Hulett contacted the Roselle Fire Dept., but Mrs. Pettee and the baby were dead on arrival at Alexian Brothers Medical Center.

The lawsuits are not expected to go to trial until mid-1977 because of a backlog of court cases. Hulett has said he will return for the trial.

Parks seniors club sets activities

A number of activities are planned this month by the Elk Grove Park District's senior citizen club.

The monthly VIP dinner will be Jan. 12 in Elmhurst, with the bus leaving the Elk Grove Cinema parking lot, 1050 Arlington Heights Rd., at 4 p.m. Reservations must be made and the fee is $5.50.

The seniors' regular monthly meeting will be 7 p.m. Jan. 15 at the Lions Park Community Center, 180 Kennedy Blvd. A nutrition expert is scheduled to speak at the meeting.

There will be a trip to the Northern Chalet Restaurant, Libertyville, Jan. 23. The cost will be $4.50 and the bus will leave at 11 a.m. from the Elk Grove Cinema parking lot.

Senior citizens also are being sought to attend the Jan. 30 annual meeting of the VIP Council of Northern Illinois at the auditorium of the County Complex, Wheaton. Rides will be arranged for the 9 a.m. meeting.

Reservations for all senior citizen club events can be made by contacting Darlene Greaves at 437-4220.

2nd increase slated for July

U.S. orders hike in natural gas prices

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Power Commission Wednesday ordered an immediate nationwide boost in natural gas prices, to be followed by another increase in July. The increases will cost consumers about $380 million extra in 1976.

In its unanimous opinion, the FPC said the price increase was necessary to ease natural gas shortages, to protect the industry's ability to meet demand, and help the nation's economy.

"Our responsibilities under the Natural Gas Act require us to take appropriate steps to minimize the adverse impact of gas shortages on the economy," the FPC said.

"IN OUR judgment the benefit to the national economy from amelioration of the gas shortage will more than compensate for the increased cost to consumers of the gas covered by this opinion."

A Northern Illinois Gas Co. spokesman said Wednesday:

"We have no way of knowing how this will affect us."

Pipeline suppliers including the Natural Gas Pipeline Co. of America, Chicago, will pass along any cost increases to the utility.

Under the opinion, the ceiling price producers may charge pipeline operators for natural gas from wells operating prior to Jan. 1, 1973 will rise to 23 1/2 cents per thousand cubic feet on

New Year's Day.

It will go to 29 1/2 cents on July 1 to reflect repeal of the percentage depletion allowance for oil and natural gas that becomes effective on that date.

The new rates will be effective nationwide, ending the current system of rate-setting by geographic area. The average cost of natural gas under this system in 1975 was 22.9 cents per thousand cubic feet.

THE FPC estimated — assuming no change in 1972 gas volumes — an added cost of $60.55 million in 1976. An FPC spokesman said such cost increases traditionally have been passed through to consumers.

The action affects only gas shipped in interstate commerce and not that piped within a single state. Those rates, not federally regulated, have tended to be slightly higher.

Under the new order, the minimum natural gas price will be set at 18 cents per thousand cubic feet.

The opinion does not affect the price of natural gas from wells operating since Jan. 1, 1973 — for which the FPC in 1974 set a single nationwide ceiling of 51 cents per thousand cubic feet. Under that decision, the ceiling automatically rises today to 52 cents.

For both "old" and "new" gas now covered by nationwide rates, the complex formulas were devised to give producers a 15 per cent rate of return.

Joining in lengthy opinion ending the 2 1/2 year old case were FPC Chairman Richard L. Dunham and Commissioners Don S. Smith, John H. Holloman III and James G. Watt; there is one vacancy.

"The commission said it had determined on the basis of the evidence that the price adjustment for old gas is necessary to protect the industry's ability to serve the interstate market," said an accompanying statement.

CLAUDIA KIEFFER says "loving God better" is her resolution for 1976. She says she can reach her goal by "thinking about Him more, praying, studying Bible stories and singing songs about God."

Michael Radzine has made perhaps the most meaningful resolution of all. "I promised my mother I'd give my sister a bath," he says, explaining that his mother is making a slow recovery from an automobile accident and has trouble caring for him and his 4-year-old sister Beth.

But then some first-graders just want to wish away 1976 until it's Christmas again. Junior woodsman Lance Burgdorf has resolved to "cut Christmas trees better" next year.

2 groups to oppose expansion of airport

Representatives of a group known as Stop Schaumburg Airport Future Expansion and a Hanover Park homeowners' association will testify against expansion of Schaumburg Airport at a Jan. 12 public meeting called by the Federal Aviation Administration.

Michael Poteille, 1564 Yorkshire Dr., Hanover Park, said at least one member of the group and a representative of the Better Independent Government Homeowners' Assn. will speak at the meeting at 7:30 p.m. in the Great Hall, 231 S. Civic Dr., to oppose proposed improvements.

Poteille is a law professor and hearing officer for the Illinois Pollution Control Board. He has been appointed by Louis Barone, Hanover Park village president, to investigate Schaumburg officials' plan to purchase and improve the 120-acre field at Wright Boulevard and Irving Park Road.

THE FAA HAS CALLED the informal meeting to hear residents' comments on the aeronautical aspects of proposed airport improvements.

Consultants have recommended Schaumburg purchase the 120-acre field, and have suggested the runway be lengthened from 3,100 feet to 3,900 feet to accommodate light weight single and twin-engine aircraft.

Large jet aircraft or commercial planes are prohibited from using the field because of its size and proximity to O'Hare Airport.

Poteille said the community action group has members in Schaumburg, Hoffman Estates, Hanover Park, Roselle and Streamwood, and has collected "about 1,000 signatures" on petitions soon to be presented to elected officials in those villages.

Poteille said he believes Robert Kuehl of Roselle will represent the group at the FAA meeting. Poteille said he may speak for the homeowners' association, though "plans have not yet been completely formed up."

LARRY THIELEN, chairman of Schaumburg Citizens for Planned Progress airport committee, also has said he will testify at the meeting.

Woman suing two villages

Village and police officials in Hoffman Estates and Barrington Hills will be served with court summons, possibly this week, in connection with a $350,000 civil suit filed against the police departments by a Hoffman Estates woman.

The suit, filed Dec. 24 by Monya Marlow, 2040 Hassell Rd., alleges that "various police officers in Hoffman Estates and Barrington Hills forcibly entered her apartment without warrant or probable cause, violating her civil rights." Mrs. Marlow's attorney, William Bochte, said.

The incident allegedly took place Nov. 19 when police were conducting a search for a man they apparently believed to be in the Marlow apart-

Named in the suit were Hoffman Estates Police Chief John O'Connell and Barrington Hills Police Chief Jack Aldrich. Four officers were named as having participated in the incident. Both villages also are named in the suit, Bochte said.

Bochte said the suit, filed in U.S. Federal Court, will be heard by Judge Joel Flaum.

2nd increase slated for July

U.S. orders hike in natural gas prices

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Power Commission Wednesday ordered an immediate nationwide boost in natural gas prices, to be followed by another increase in July. The increases will cost consumers about $360 million extra in 1976.

In its unanimous opinion, the FPC said the price increase was necessary to ease natural gas shortages, to protect the industry's ability to meet demand, and help the nation's economy.

"Our responsibilities under the Natural Gas Act require us to take appropriate steps to minimize the adverse impact of gas shortages on the economy," the FPC said.

"IN OUR judgment the benefit to the national economy from amelioration of the gas shortage will more than compensate for the increased cost to consumers of the gas covered by this opinion."

A Northern Illinois Gas Co. spokesman said Wednesday:

"We have no way of knowing how this will affect us."

Pipeline suppliers including the Natural Gas Pipeline Co. of America, Chicago, will pass along any cost increases to the utility.

Under the opinion, the ceiling price producers may charge pipeline operators for natural gas from wells operating prior to Jan. 1, 1973 will rise to 23½ cents per thousand cubic feet on

New Year's Day.

It will go to 29½ cents on July 1 to reflect repeal of the percentage depletion allowance for oil and natural gas that becomes effective on that date.

The new rates will be effective nationwide, ending the current system of rate-setting by geographic area. The average cost of natural gas under this system in 1975 was 22.3 cents per thousand cubic feet.

THE FPC estimated — assuming no change in 1972 gas volumes — an added cost of $360.55 million in 1976. An FPC spokesman said such cost increases traditionally have been passed through to consumers.

The action affects only gas shipped in interstate commerce and not that piped within a single state. Those rates, not federally regulated, have tended to be slightly higher.

Under the new order, the minimum natural gas price will be set at 18 cents per thousand cubic feet.

The opinion does not affect the price of natural gas from wells operating since Jan. 1, 1973 — for which the FPC in 1974 set a single nationwide ceiling of 51 cents per thousand cubic feet. Under that decision, the ceiling automatically rises today to 52 cents.

For both "old" and "new" gas now covered by nationwide rates, the complex formulas were devised to give producers a 15 per cent rate of return.

Joining in lengthy opinion ending the 2½ year old case were FPC Chairman Richard L. Dunham and Commissioners Don S. Smith, John H. Holloman III and James G. Watt; there is one vacancy.

"The commission said it had determined on the basis of the evidence that the price adjustment for old gas is necessary to protect the industry's ability to serve the interstate market," said an accompanying statement.

Parents beware of kids' vows

by MARILYN McDONALD

First graders in the Northwest suburbs have made New Year's resolutions for 1976, and many parents better beware.

David Robinson and Barbara Fogel, two of the first graders in the area who told The Herald their resolutions for this year, vowed to help their parents stop smoking.

David already has started his campaign. "I just make signs everywhere he goes — in our new station wagon, in his closet, under

"IT'S NOT GOOD for something inside you," Barbara said, "and you could die from it."

For Jeff Bostic, 1976 is the year he begins his drive to make the basketball team when he gets to high school in seven years.

Jeff says he is going to spend the Bicentennial year honing his roundball skills "because I can't catch a basketball."

And Kelly Kolar also plans to mix good health with fun by improving her rope-jumping skills.

Kelly recently jumped rope for the first time and plans to continue "because it's good exercise for your knees."

SOME RESOLUTIONS show wisdom beyond 6 years of age. Eric Bernhardt resolved not to lie during the year. "You shouldn't really lie. People might know that you lied," he says.

And Kathy Christy has vowed to help keep her house clean "because no one ever does it." David Roberts' parents also are in for a surprise because he has vowed to "help do the dishes" during the new year.

If some area first graders keep their resolutions, parents should see a meteoric rise in grades this year.

MANY NORTHWEST suburban parents should be relieved to know their first-grade children plan to minimize fighting with their brothers and sisters in 1976.

Sheila Keenan says, "I'm going to promise myself that I won't fight with my brother Timmy." Sheila says she and her younger brother Timmy often fight over toys. But Sheila is concerned that the two of them might set a bad example for their 2-year-old brother. "My other little brother might start fighting, and we'll never be right without fighting," she says.

Michael Van Deven figures that getting along better with his older brother will show his parents that he loves them. Another way to fulfill his resolution to love his parents more is "by not waking up grumpy in the morning."

Laura Hanson has plans to be better to another member of her family. She is going to be more "gentle with the kitten" in the household.

Then there is Leanne Rothacher who has more lofty ideals for the new year. She wants to "make an angel" of herself and make everyone happy.

CLAUDIA KIEFFER says "loving God better" is her resolution for 1976. She says she can reach her goal by "thinking about Him more, praying, studying Bible stories and singing songs about God."

Michael Radzine has made perhaps the most meaningful resolution of all. "I promised my mother I'd give my sister a bath," he says, explaining that his mother is making a slow recovery from an automobile accident and has trouble caring for him and his 4-year-old sister Beth.

Library purchases cassette recorders

Five new portable cassette recorders have been purchased by the Rolling Meadows Public Library. The recorders were purchased with a portion of a $600 donation from local groups that had originally planned to use the funds for a bookmobile.

Rolling Meadows Librarian Judith Drescher said the donation came from The Friends of the Library, Rolling Meadows Junior Women's Club, Golden Years Club and Civil Defense group.

The four groups banded together several years ago to attempt to raise funds to purchase a used van for a bookmobile.

Fund-raising efforts netted the group $600, however, the money was never used to purchase a van and instead was donated to the library.

The library spent $125 for the cassette players, which will be available for circulation to the public.

Mrs. Drescher said she is attempting to find a suitable project or service that can be provided with the remainder of the funds.

She said the library could use the money to purchase additional audiovisual equipment or begin other services but those services would have to be maintained once offered.

She said the cassette players may be checked out by residents for one week's use. The library also offers a collection of approximately 200 cassette tapes.

Mom, dad can skate on kid's tab

Children can treat their parents to a free afternoon at the Rolling Meadows ice arena Sunday during Family Day.

Ken Smith, ice arena manager, said Family Day has been designated for this Sunday as one of a series of events to increase attendance at the arena.

Parents are admitted free to the arena if children who accompany them pay the full admission at the 2:15 to 4:15 p.m. skating session.

The ice arena is at 3900 Owl Ln.

Skating tickets good for 12 public skating sessions are also on sale for $10 to residents of Rolling Meadows and Arlington Heights as part of a shared-use contract recently approved by both park districts.

In addition to the Sunday public skating session, the rink is open 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Fridays, and 12:20 to 2:15 p.m. and 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Saturdays for open skating.

Anyone interested in ice rental may call 392-4364 for rates or reservations and 392-1789 after 5 p.m. The basic fee is $65 an hour; however the arena offers reduced rates for non-prime hours.

Ice arena backers continue vote fight

Petitions urging a second Palatine Park District referendum to purchase the Arlington Ice Spectrum will continue to circulate despite problems acquiring signatures.

Organizers of the drive have met to decide if they should proceed with the matter in light of the group's failure to acquire 1,500 signatures in time for the park board's last meeting. The park board has set the 1,500 figure as the number of persons it would like in support of the proposal before considering the referendum.

Cops tell of thin ice on Rossiter Lake

Palatine police have warned residents to stay away from ice at Rossiter Lake because village workmen had pumped out water, leaving a thin shell of ice.

Trespassing at the lake near Palatine Road and Ill. Rte. 53 is illegal, but police said if a person stepped on the ice, it would crack because there is a four-foot air space between the ice and the water.

Bruce Anderson, president of the Palatine Amateur Hockey Assn. and sponsor of the campaign, said Wednesday the proposal is gaining support. He said the special committee organized by the hockey association to handle the petition drive has been expanded in anticipation of a referendum being scheduled.

"We are a couple of hundred names away but we want to be over the goal to show the park board that they should have no reticence about supporting it," Anderson said.

HE SAID THE organizers of the drive are making plans for promotions to support passage of a referendum including direct mailings to residents and a presentation to be shown to civic and homeowner groups.

Letters to hockey association parents will be sent this weekend and will be followed by telephone calls asking those who have not signed a petition to do so, Anderson said. He added he has received several calls from residents who have asked petitions be sent to them for signature.

"We have to get the idea across to the public that this is not just a hockey rink," Anderson said. "It is a multi-purpose rink that will serve all ages year round for generations to come."

ANDERSON SAID the group is hoping to have the campaign completed in time to present the petitions to the park board at its Jan. 13 meeting.

A similar referendum sponsored by the park board in June was defeated by a 2-to-1 margin. The referendum asked voters to approve the sale of $305,000 in bonds to finance purchase of the Spectrum, 647 Consumers Ave., Palatine.

The hockey association includes 445 boys who use the Spectrum for practice sessions and competition with other teams.

U.S. orders hike in natural gas prices

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Power Commission Wednesday ordered an immediate nationwide boost in natural gas prices, to be followed by another increase in July. The increases will cost consumers about $380 million extra in 1976.
